PEKIN DEMANDS RECALL OF BRITISH TROOPS

Harsh Words, Mister.

Gladstone's Bones.

The Leisured Woman.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.]

THE 1928 convention and nomination, so far as the Democrats are concerned, is starting already. Mr. McAdoo, from out of the West, tells Eastern lawyers that the effort of individual states to set aside prohibition laws means embarking on the slippery slide of anarchy.

MR. McADOO even says that the effort to modify the Volstead law is "a concerted advance upon the national government by the forces which since the days of Tweed and Croker have been mainly responsible for selling protection against the law to crime and criminals." It looks like a fight.

"Them is harsh words," as the fishwife said when the philosopher called her "an isosceles parallelopipedon."

CYRUS H. K. CURTIS' paper says Messrs. Baruch and Chadbourne, who were the big fighting men in the McAdoo camp of 1924, have moved over to the Governor Smith camp, and are for him now. Baruch and Chadbourne know a good deal about political management, and are entitled to front seats on the Governor Smith wagon.

That British law should allow the name of Gladstone, dead twenty-nine years, to be dragged in the mud, is amazing. As to Gladstone's morals, this writer can testify that he went home from the house of commons at three in the morning or later, night after night, his old wife waiting for him at the door under the clock tower to wrap a big muffler about his neck and take him home. That was when he made his fight for Home Rule on the opposition bench.

THAT suit digging into Gladstone's grave brings out the statement that for love of a pretty Russian spy, sent to England to get hold of him and in-

Catalina Channel Victory May Win $100,000 For Young

CHICAGO, Jan. 31. — William Wrigley, Jr., fresh from Catalina, declared today that George Young, the youthful Toronto swimmer who conquered the choppy Catalina channel, should amass a fortune of "at least $100,000," as a result of his achievement.

Young's first money was the $25,000 offered by Mr. Wrigley for the first man to conquer the channel. Wrigley said it cost $100,000 to stage the marathon.

"Young is getting $1,000 a day for public appearance," said the chewing gum magnate. "But swimming isn't the only thing that boy knows how to do. He knows how to hold onto money. He's putting it in trust for his mother."

BLAZE FOLLOWS BREAK IN GAS MAIN IN RIVER

Valve Shut Off Pending Arrival of Diver.

Gas escaping from an eight-inch main, broken in the Ohio river near the city limits just west of Jethro, at noon Saturday, was ignited late Sunday afternoon and burned brightly for several hours before it was extinguished.

The flames mounted high into the air from the surface of the water and drew the attention of hundreds of sightseers, who were attracted by the bright glare in the sky. Officials of the Manufacturers Light and Heat company closed the valves at both ends of the broken pipe, extinguishing the blaze.

The pipe follows the river bank from Steubenville to East Liverpool. Ordinarily the line is out of the river but during the last few weeks has been under several feet of water. The break is believed to have occurred when the current of the river washed away the earth underneath the line, allowing the sleeve joint to break.

Gas company officials shut off the gas shortly after the break occurred, but the valve is believed to have failed to close securely and Sunday afternoon the gas was ignited either by sparks from a passing engine or by a passerby who tossed a lighted match into the water where the gas was bubbling to the surface.

The break caused district consumers no inconvenience as East Liverpool is also supplied by five eight-inch mains which cross the river from West Virginia near the foot of Broadway and in the East End.

T. H. Stephens, manager for the Manufacturers Light and Heat company, said today that the broken main would be repaired as soon as the river receded to permit a diver to work. A diver will be brought here from Pittsburgh to repair the break in the main.

LONDON AWAITS EVENTS IN CHINA

PEKIN, Jan. 31.—The Chinese government at Pekin has demanded that Great Britain immediately recall the thousands of troops that she has embarked for China.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 31.—The consular body has refused to allow foreign troops to occupy the international settlement in Shanghai, and two battalions of recently arrived British troops have been forced to evacuate from their quarters in the Shanghai race course.

British Propaganda Check.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The British government today decided to withhold publication of its proposals to China, "awaiting the course of events in China."

It is understood that the failure to receive advices from Peking and Hankow as to how the Chinese have received the proposals is responsible for the holding up of the publication of the terms.

The foreign office today, however, suggested that emphasis should be laid on the fact that the suggestions for Anglo-Chinese administration of the concessions does not mean that Great Britain has any intention of surrendering all control or evacuating her concessions. The proposals do not apply to Shanghai, because it is an international settlement.

Anti-British Campaign Violent.

A dispatch from Peking said Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian warlord and virtual dictator at Peking, was so dissatisfied with the British proposals that he issued orders on Friday to stop all troop movements southward and to prepare for the return to Mukden, capital of Manchuria. This would have left North China practically open to the advance of the Cantonese forces.

ONE MAN SLAIN, POLICEMAN AND WOMAN INJURED IN GUN BATTLE

Philadelphia Saloon is Scene of Fatal Clash.

NINE IN FIGHT

The shooting, it is believed, took place when William Rommell, 36, the patrolman, tried to act as peacemaker in a quarrel between four girls and five men in the saloon. It is believed that the dead man is Burton White, 30, of Chester, Pa. His body was so badly torn by the gun fire that identification was difficult.

Porcelain Company Increases Capital Stock to $50,000

Capital stock of the Standard Porcelain company, of Zelienople is to be immediately increased from $10,000 to $50,000 to provide for an expansion program which has been planned, it was announced today.

The company will add another kiln and make other improvements, costing approximately $13,000, within 30 days. Among men, who have had years of experience in the electric porcelain business, now associated with the Standard company, are B. D. Kenney, George Wines, S. C. Seckman and Robert Burnsner.

Driver Hurt When Truck Goes Over Steep Embankment

George Clapperton, of Florida avenue, Chester, suffered two ribs fractured today when he was thrown from an automobile truck after it plunged over a 12-foot embankment near First street, Chester. He was attended by Dr. George E. Lewis after which he was removed to his home.

The accident occurred when the radius rod of the truck broke as it was descending the steep grade.

35 EXECUTED BY CALLES ARMY

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 31.—Thirty-five persons were executed at dawn yesterday at the federal garrison at Oaxaca, according to unconfirmed reports published here by the newspaper El Universal.

The persons executed were reported to have been brought from Mixteca and charged with being concerned in a general uprising in which 17 soldiers and 15 police were killed.

Penny is Lodged In Throat of Boy, Causing His Death

Wind Causes $5,000 Damage At Rock Spring Park

Damage estimated between $4,000 and $5,000 resulted when high wind wrecked a section of the partially completed scaffold of the new coaster ride at Rock Springs park, Chester, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The frame work collapsed and toppled over the hillside.

About 200 feet of the new concession, located between the dancing pavilion and the park office, was destroyed. The frame work for the ride was in process of erection, but was not braced.

Heavy gusts of wind caught the structure, causing the ropes, which were holding it, to break. Five oak and elm trees on the embankment overlooking Carolina avenue were ruined by the heavy timbers.

Most of the lumber in the wrecked section was rendered a total loss.

Rebuilding on the damaged portion was started today. The loss, it is claimed, was fully covered by cyclone insurance carried by the H. C. Baker company, of New York, amusement park engineers, constructing the ride. The ride will be completed within the next six weeks with favorable weather prevailing, according to C. C. Macdonald, park operator.

Sheriff Searches Zellers Home, But Makes No Arrests

Sheriff George Wright accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Kindsvatter searched the home of Louis Zellers on the Calcutta-East Liverpool road about 2 o'clock Sunday morning, but found no liquor.

Several visitors were in the Zellers' home, but no arrests were made.

"Peaches"-"Daddy" Trial Breaks all Court Crowd Marks

COURT HOUSE, White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 31.—All records for crowds at the Westchester county courthouse were broken today when thousands of persons milled about to get a glimps of the principals in the Browning separation trial.

The corridors and stairways of the building, from the first to the fourth floor, where the trial is being held, was packed with struggling people.

"Peaches" arrived at the court house at 9:30 and was greeted by a cheer. It took her 10 minutes to reach the court room.

Ten minutes later "Daddy" arrived in his Rolls-Royce. He posed for pictures on the court house steps and then fought his way to the court room, amid the vociferous greetings of the mob—a large part of which was made up of flappers.

HUGH BROWN, 75, TORONTO, DIES

Funeral services for Hugh Brown, 75 years old, who died Saturday in the home of his son, James Brown, of Toronto, were held this afternoon, in charge of Rev. F. O. Wise, pastor of the Toronto Presbyterian church.

Mr. Brown, who was born in Ireland, had resided in Toronto for 42 years and until his retirement five years ago had been actively identified with the sewer pipe industry.

He is survived by the following sons and daughters: James, William and Merle, Toronto; Mrs. Fred Furrer and Mrs. Charles Knowles, East Liverpool; Mrs. Charles Handy, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Charles Sprague, Bridgeport, and Mrs. Thomas Myers, of Toronto, but who is now visiting in California.

HOLE IS TORN IN HIGHWAY AS SLIP BLOCKS TROLLEY LINE

Slide Occurs on Hillside East of Brady's Cut.

$25,000 DAMAGE

Huge Rock Topples 300 feet Onto Car Tracks.

A 200-ton boulder, loosened by thawing temperatures, crashed from the hillside 300 feet above the Wellsville-East Liverpool road, east of Brady's cut, shortly before 3 o'clock this morning, badly damaging and completely blocking the highway and two tracks of the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company.

Millworker Gives Warning.

The slip, said to have caused approximately $25,000 damage, is believed to have occurred shortly after a west-bound "dead head," carrying street car workers to their homes, passed.

A Wellsville mill worker, giving the name of Wallace, driving along the road to work, found the highway blocked by the slide. He turned his car and drove back to the Diamond and notified the street car dispatcher on duty at the Pennsylvania avenue car barns.

The huge boulder which carried with it tons of earth and dozens of smaller boulders as it broke loose from the hill high above the roadway, tore away a section of the concrete curbing on the southside of the highway driving bricks and the concrete foundation several feet into the ground. Both the eastbound and westbound car tracks were also damaged.

Wreck crew of the traction company was hurried to the scene of the slide as soon as the men could be summoned from their homes. Company officials also telephoned to R. L. Keltner, superintendent of state highway department maintenance force at Lisbon, advising him of the closing of the highway. Keltner sent a force of 10 men and three trucks to this end of the county at 7 o'clock this morning to assist in clearing the road.

Trolley cars were operating today from East Liverpool as far as the slip and from that point passengers were transferred to other cars which had been brought to Wellsville from Steubenville pending the clearing of the right of way.

A River road motor bus was sent to Wellsville over the Campground road to assist in transporting early car passengers from the slip to points west. The safety "dead head" car in Wellsville over night, operated between the blocked point and Wooster's pending the arrival of cars from Steubenville.

Dynamite Is Used.

Several charges of dynamite were used by the wreck crews in breaking the boulder. The earth and other material were thrown over the hillside

IF UNITED STATES KEEPS UP ITS PRESENT GROWTH, COUNTRY WILL HAVE POPULATION OF MORE THAN 226,500,000 IN YEAR 2,000

BY ROBERT S. THORNBURGH.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—If the United States keeps up its present rate of growth, the country will have a population of well over 226,500,000 in the year 2,000.

This estimate was based upon the announcement today by the bureau of the census, that, by July 1, the population will have passed 118,628,000, a gain of 1,492,000 in a year and 12,918,000 since 1920.

The census bureau's estimate gave the population of each state except those which had showed a decrease between 1910 and 1920, or from 1920 to 1925.

Pennsylvania gained 1,109,993 in population between 1920 and 1927. New York increased 1,037,7773 in the same period and California 1,006,139. New York led in population with 11,423,000, followed by Pennsylvania with 9,730,000.

In order to support the vast future population Secretary of Commerce Hoover believes that great progress must be made in the better utilization of raw materials, elimination of industrial waste, development of water and power resources, in science and other fields, that living standards may be maintained. He believes that the progress of scientific and industrial achievement will so increase productivity that living standards not only will be maintained but greatly improved with the growth of the nation.

The unofficial estimate for 2,000 is regarded as conservative. Officials believed that the rate of gain in population, resulting from the surplus of births over deaths will increase from year to year aside from immigration.

Public health reports show that the average span of life is increasing, partially from greater progress in medical science and sanitation, and partially from elimination of de-vitalizing manual labor possible through labor saving devices.

Estimated population of the states and the gain since 1920 were given as follows:

State	July 1, 1927	Gain.

Damage estimated between $4,000 and $5,000 resulted when high wind wrecked a section of the partially completed scaffold of the new coaster ride at Rock Springs park, Chester, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The frame work collapsed and toppled over the hillside.

About 200 feet of the new concession, located between the dancing pavilion and the park office, was destroyed. The frame work for the ride was in process of erection, but was not braced.

Heavy gusts of wind caught the structure, causing the ropes, which were holding it, to break. Five oak and elm trees on the embankment overlooking Carolina avenue were ruined by the heavy timbers.

Most of the lumber in the wrecked section was rendered a total loss.

Rebuilding on the damaged portion was started today. The loss, it is claimed, was fully covered by cyclone insurance carried by the H. C. Baker company, of New York, amusement park engineers, constructing the ride. The ride will be completed within the next six weeks with favorable weather prevailing, according to C. C. Macdonald, park operator.

Sheriff Searches Zellers Home, But Makes No Arrests

Sheriff George Wright accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Kindsvatter searched the home of Louis Zellers on the Calcutta-East Liverpool road about 2 o'clock Sunday morning, but found no liquor.

Several visitors were in the Zellers' home, but no arrests were made.

"Peaches"-"Daddy" Trial Breaks all Court Crowd Marks

COURT HOUSE, White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 31.—All records for crowds at the Westchester county courthouse were broken today when thousands of persons milled about to get a glimps of the principals in the Browning separation trial.

The corridors and stairways of the building, from the first to the fourth floor, where the trial is being held, was packed with struggling people.

"Peaches" arrived at the court house at 9:30 and was greeted by a cheer. It took her 10 minutes to reach the court room.

Ten minutes later "Daddy" arrived in his Rolls-Royce. He posed for pictures on the court house steps and then fought his way to the court room, amid the vociferous greetings of the mob—a large part of which was made up of flappers.

HUGH BROWN, 75, TORONTO, DIES

Funeral services for Hugh Brown, 75 years old, who died Saturday in the home of his son, James Brown, of Toronto, were held this afternoon, in charge of Rev. F. O. Wise, pastor of the Toronto Presbyterian church.

Mr. Brown, who was born in Ireland, had resided in Toronto for 42 years and until his retirement five years ago had been actively identified with the sewer pipe industry.

He is survived by the following sons and daughters: James, William and Merle, Toronto; Mrs. Fred Furrer and Mrs. Charles Knowles, East Liverpool; Mrs. Charles Handy, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Charles Sprague, Bridgeport, and Mrs. Thomas Myers, of Toronto, but who is now visiting in California.

HOLE IS TORN IN HIGHWAY AS SLIP BLOCKS TROLLEY LINE

Slide Occurs on Hillside East of Brady's Cut.

$25,000 DAMAGE

Huge Rock Topples 300 feet Onto Car Tracks.

A 200-ton boulder, loosened by thawing temperatures, crashed from the hillside 300 feet above the Wellsville-East Liverpool road, east of Brady's cut, shortly before 3 o'clock this morning, badly damaging and completely blocking the highway and two tracks of the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company.

Millworker Gives Warning.

The slip, said to have caused approximately $25,000 damage, is believed to have occurred shortly after a west-bound "dead head," carrying street car workers to their homes, passed.

A Wellsville mill worker, giving the name of Wallace, driving along the road to work, found the highway blocked by the slide. He turned his car and drove back to the Diamond and notified the street car dispatcher on duty at the Pennsylvania avenue car barns.

The huge boulder which carried with it tons of earth and dozens of smaller boulders as it broke loose from the hill high above the roadway, tore away a section of the concrete curbing on the southside of the highway driving bricks and the concrete foundation several feet into the ground. Both the eastbound and westbound car tracks were also damaged.

Wreck crew of the traction company was hurried to the scene of the slide as soon as the men could be summoned from their homes. Company officials also telephoned to R. L. Keltner, superintendent of state highway department maintenance force at Lisbon, advising him of the closing of the highway. Keltner sent a force of 10 men and three trucks to this end of the county at 7 o'clock this morning to assist in clearing the road.

Trolley cars were operating today from East Liverpool as far as the slip and from that point passengers were transferred to other cars which had been brought to Wellsville from Steubenville pending the clearing of the right of way.

A River road motor bus was sent to Wellsville over the Campground road to assist in transporting early car passengers from the slip to points west. The safety "dead head" car in Wellsville over night, operated between the blocked point and Wooster's pending the arrival of cars from Steubenville.

Dynamite Is Used.

Several charges of dynamite were used by the wreck crews in breaking the boulder. The earth and other material were thrown over the hillside

IF UNITED STATES KEEPS UP ITS PRESENT GROWTH, COUNTRY WILL HAVE POPULATION OF MORE THAN 226,500,000 IN YEAR 2,000

BY ROBERT S. THORNBURGH.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—If the United States keeps up its present rate of growth, the country will have a population of well over 226,500,000 in the year 2,000.

This estimate was based upon the announcement today by the bureau of the census, that, by July 1, the population will have passed 118,628,000, a gain of 1,492,000 in a year and 12,918,000 since 1920.

The census bureau's estimate gave the population of each state except those which had showed a decrease between 1910 and 1920, or from 1920 to 1925.

Pennsylvania gained 1,109,993 in population between 1920 and 1927. New York increased 1,037,7773 in the same period and California 1,006,139. New York led in population with 11,423,000, followed by Pennsylvania with 9,730,000.

In order to support the vast future population Secretary of Commerce Hoover believes that great progress must be made in the better utilization of raw materials, elimination of industrial waste, development of water and power resources, in science and other fields, that living standards may be maintained. He believes that the progress of scientific and industrial achievement will so increase productivity that living standards not only will be maintained but greatly improved with the growth of the nation.

The unofficial estimate for 2,000 is regarded as conservative. Officials believed that the rate of gain in population, resulting from the surplus of births over deaths will increase from year to year aside from immigration.

Public health reports show that the average span of life is increasing, partially from greater progress in medical science and sanitation, and partially from elimination of de-vitalizing manual labor possible through labor saving devices.

Estimated population of the states and the gain since 1920 were given as follows:

REPUBLICAN LEADER IN HOUSE SEES PARTIES AS MUCH ALIKE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The bigger the public man, the readier he is to tell, right out, what he really thinks, without any qualifications to the effect that he mustn't be quoted. That's been my experience.

JOHN TILSON

Take a small calibre congressfor instance. He hardly feels that he can walk on the same side of the street with another congressman, if one happens to be a Republican and the other a Democrat.

But how about Col. John Q. Tilson, Republican leader in the house of representatives?

When I had occasion the other day to ask the old war horse, "What's the difference between a Republican and a Democrat?" the colonel gave utterance to this revolutionary statement: "There isn't much difference."

On second thought the colonel did try to draw some little distinction along tariff lines, but he didn't do it with any enthusiasm. He had to admit there are a good many protectionist Democrats and tariff reduction Republicans.

At the same time the colonel said, he believes in a two party government, if they're only the "ins" and the "outs."

The "ins" are in and they're responsible and they have to try to do a good job in order to stay in. The "outs" function is to keep the "ins" up to snuff by everlastingly trying to break in, and thus becoming "ins," while transforming the erstwhile "ins" into "outs."

Tilson isn't altogether prepared to agree to a realignment of the parties as conservatives and liberals.

Political groups don't classify that way, he says.

"If a man's wisely conservative," he explains, "the other fellow's a red radical. If he's an enlightened liberal the other chap's a hidebound reactionary.

Born in Tennessee, Col. Tilson is a typical New Englander. Since he went to Yale—he worked his own way through, including the law school—he always has lived in the Nutmeg state.

He has the tall, spare, big-boned New England frame, the stubby white mustache of the elderly New Englander and the crisp efficiency of New England in his manner. If he ever had a southern drawl it's worn off from him completely.

(Finis J. Garrett, the Democratic leader in congress, also is a Tennesseean, but that's only a coincidence.)

Col. Tilson's a real soldier. He was in the Spanish war, the 2nd Connecticut Infantry and served on the Mexican border—altogether nearly 20 years of it.

He's been in congress 16 years. He has three separate offices scattered around the Capitol building, besides the floor of the house of representatives. You're likely to meet him anywhere, but you need a Capitol guide to keep track of him, he likely to be in so many different places.

As majority leader he's a stern disciplarian, but a lamb hasn't anything on him for mildness when he's off duty.

They say he's closer to President Coolidge than any other member of congress, and yet he doesn't always vote for the president's policies. For instance the president turned thumbs down on three new cruisers recently, but Tilson cast his ballot for money to start building 'em and even made a speech about it.

"Im long past the point where I care a cent for office," the colonel told me. "My sole object in coming to congress now is service."

CONWAY TEARLE AT AMERICAN

Mae Murray, dainty heroine of dozens of screen romances, has turned to comedy in her latest picture, "Altars of Desire," in which Conway Tearle plays opposite her in the featured male lead.

"Altars of Desire" is the type of comedy that has lately found favor with the film fans, the comedy flavored with romantic sophistication. In this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, at the American theatre, Miss Murray plays the part of Clare Sutherland, one that is said to compare favorably with her "Merry Widow" in opportunities for the star.

"Altars of Desire," was directed by Christy Cabanne, director of "The Midshipman," "Monte Carlo" and other successes. Maude George, Robert Edeson, Andre Beranger and others are in the cast. Marie Thompson Davies wrote the story, which was adapted to the screen by Alice D. G. Miller and Agnes Christine Johnstone. The screen play is by Albert Lewin.

Big Game Hunter Praises "Gorilla Hunt," Coming Here

"The Gorilla Hunt," F. B. O.'s hunting narrative made by Ben Burbridge in the jungles of darkest Africa, which comes to the Ceramis theatre soon, is attracting the attention of noted hunters throughout the country. Herbert E. Bradley, well-known Chicago attorney, who has himself made several attempts to penetrate the African jungles, and who in 1921 accompanied the late Carl Akeley on an expedition into the very country depicted in "The Gorilla Hunt," speaks of this picture in these terms:

"Our party appreciated very much the private showing a few days ago of the Gorilla Hunt film by Ben Burbridge. Realizing as I do from my personal experience the great difficulty of taking pictures of wild gorillas in Africa I appreciate that the Burbridge picture is a wonderful piece of photography, both as to subject and presentation. I believe that photographing wild gorillas is probably the most difficult task in the world today and Mr. Burbridge's splendid picture could only have been brought about by endless patience and hard work.

"The Gorilla Hunt" is now in its fifth week at the Cameo theatre, Times Square, New York and is scheduled for first runs in some of the finest houses in the country. The Wisconsin, in Milwaukee, the Rialto, in Chicago, and all the Keith, Proctor and Moss theatres' are among those who have already booked it.

Loosen Up that Cold With Musterole

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all the advantages of grandmother's mustard plaster without the burn. You feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many nurses and doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and "flu".

EXHIBITION OF OIL PAINTINGS ALL THIS WEEK.

In our Washington Street Annex Window we have on exhibition all this week, thirty oil paintings. These paintings were exhibited at the Philadelphia Academy of Fine Arts in December and six of the collection were reproduced in the annual catalog. These pictures are the work of artists representing the modern school of art.

CONWAY TEARLE AT AMERICAN

Mae Murray, dainty heroine of dozens of screen romances, has turned to comedy in her latest picture, "Altars of Desire," in which Conway Tearle plays opposite her in the featured male lead.

"Altars of Desire" is the type of comedy that has lately found favor with the film fans, the comedy flavored with romantic sophistication. In this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, at the American theatre, Miss Murray plays the part of Clare Sutherland, one that is said to compare favorably with her "Merry Widow" in opportunities for the star.

"Altars of Desire," was directed by Christy Cabanne, director of "The Midshipman," "Monte Carlo" and other successes. Maude George, Robert Edeson, Andre Beranger and others are in the cast. Marie Thompson Daviess wrote the story, which was adapted to the screen by Alice D. G. Miller and Agnes Christine Johnstone. The screen play is by Albert Lewin.

Big Game Hunter Praises "Gorilla Hunt," Coming Here

"The Gorilla Hunt," F. B. O.'s hunting narrative made by Ben Burbridge in the jungles of darkest Africa, which comes to the Ceramis theatre soon, is attracting the attention of noted hunters throughout the country. Herbert E. Bradley, well-known Chicago attorney, who has himself made several attempts to penetrate the African jungles, and who in 1921 accompanied the late Carl Akeley on an expedition into the very country depicted in "The Gorilla Hunt," speaks of this picture in these terms:

"Our party appreciated very much the private showing a few days ago of the Gorilla Hunt film by Ben Burbridge. Realizing as I do from my personal experience the great difficulty of taking pictures of wild gorillas in Africa I appreciate that the Burbridge picture is a wonderful piece of photography, both as to subject and presentation. I believe that photographing wild gorillas is probably the most difficult task in the world today and Mr. Burbridge's splendid picture could only have been brought about by endless patience and hard work.

"The Gorilla Hunt" is now in its fifth week at the Cameo theatre, Times Square, New York and is scheduled for first runs in some of the finest houses in the country. The Wisconsin, in Milwaukee, the Rialto, in Chicago, and all the Keith, Proctor and Moss theatres' are among those who have already booked it.

Loosen Up that Cold With Musterole

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all the advantages of grandmother's mustard plaster without the burn. You feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many nurses and doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and "flu".

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN.

She closed the door and came towards me with a smile, as I rose from my seat.

"Good afternoon, Mr. Quexter," she said.

The nightmare of two days' solitary confinement lay between this meeting and the last time I had seen her, and my first sensation was one of relief for something that at least restored me to memories of human companionship and the open air. My impulse was to welcome her as a friend.

She was wearing an afternoon frock of brown crepe de chine, with a string of fine pearls around her neck. It was the first time that I had seen her without a hat, and I noted the way in which her brown hair curled naturally about her ears.

I suppressed an impulse to appeal to her frankly as a comrade and fell into the opposite extreme of formality.

"To what am I indebted for the honor of this visit?" I asked.

"Lord, how terribly solemn we are! Why not just assume that I wanted to see you?"

In spite of myself I smiled. She seemed such a child and her gayety was infectious.

"And why should you want to see me?" I began.

"Who knows?" she replied. "One can never be really sure why one does things. Perhaps it's because I like your name. It's Robert—isn't it?—A common name but full of romance."

I looked at her in astonishment.

"There was Robert King of France," she went on, half to herself, "who wrote hymns; a Robert of Normandy, who failed to take England but captured Jerusalem; a Robert of Scotland, and even a Robert of Geneva, a wicked anti-pope, whom they besieged in Avignon during the Great Schism."

I said nothing in answer to this historical disquisition.

"I think you must be like the other Roberts," she continued. "They were all strong and medieval and not very polite."

"What is it you want?" I repeated stolidly. 'I can't imagine you've come here to discuss my Christian name."

She looked grave at that and said in a low voice and with a show of feeling. "I have come here as your friend, Robert Quexter. You are in considerable danger, but, if only you will be frank with me, I shall perhaps be able to help you."

She came close to me, and with the air of one moved by an irresistible but reluctant emotion, she said almost in a whisper:

"Mr. Quexter, there are times when the ordinary formalities are foolish and out of place. I want to help you. Please believe that I do. But I'm powerless to help unless you tell me the truth."

I looked at her again. It was difficult to believe that she was the emissary of Mr. Center, come to secure my confidence and to betray it. I almost prayed, but in vain, that she would not mention the handkerchief. But her next words left me no doubt as to the nature of her mission.

"Two days ago,' she said, "you pretended to restore to me a certain handkerchief, but it was a different one, and I can do nothing for you unless you will tell me everything you know about it."

I looked at her grieved that she should be playing the game of my enemies. She could not mistake or ignore my attitude. She laid her hand gently on my knee.

"Believe me," she pleaded in a distress that seemed to be genuine, "I really do want to help you. That, at least, is true."

"Very possibly," I said. "It is also true that you have come here on behalf of your employer to entrap me into giving you my confidence."

She looked at me reproachfully a moment.

"Well," she replied, "what if it be so. It's the only way to save you."

"You speak in riddles," I said, "and it will be best perhaps to end this interview at once."

She made a little wringing motion of the hands.

"Oh, my friend," she cried. "You are playing a dangerous game. What is the use of it? We know that the handkerchief was in the laundry. We know that you took it away from there. Where is it now? The handkerchief you gave me is not the right one, and you must surely know where the right one is to be found. What is your object in this business? How

"I am not," I answered shortly.

"And the man from New York," she inquired.

"I met him entirely by accident at Dijon."

"That meeting was not of my seeking," I answered grimly.

"You visited the police together."

"I had been kidnapped and threatened with murder. In such circumstances, it is usual to visit the police."

"You can tell us nothing about the man from New York, or of his plans?"

"I haven't the least idea where he is or what he may be doing."

"You have no idea why we are anxious to obtain the handkerchief?"

"Not the least idea."

She leaned back wearily.

"You do not believe me," I suggested.

"You have told me the truth, but not all the truth," she replied. "You are an intelligent man, Mr. Quexter. You could not possibly fail to know more than you pretend."

She leaned forward again, her eyes urgently appealing.

"What has become of the handkerchief? You must tell me that. It is a matter of life and death."

VERA GORDON AT CERAMIC

Plays Mother Role in Picture, "Private Izzy Murphy."

All who remember Vera Gordon as the mother in "Humoresque," and there are hundreds of thousands who do remember her, will rejoice that she has been chosen as the mother in George Jessel's starring vehicle, "Private Izzy Murphy," the Warner picture directed by Lloyd Bacon, which opens a three-day run at the Ceramic theatre today.

Miss Gordon's vivid and poignant performances seem to be the incarnation of all the joys and sorrows of mothers everywhere. She seems actually to be the mother she portrays. In "Private Izzy Murphy" she is Izzy's mother, and we see her first when, with her husband, she comes to the home of her good son has prepared for her in the New World. Izzy has been successful in his delicatessen venture. He has taken the name of "Murphy" on account of the nationality of his customers. And a daughter of Erin it is, Eileen, played by Patsy Ruth Miller, who captured the susceptible heart of Izzy.

Miss Gordon's role runs the whole scale of emotions—delight at her boy's business success; pride in his fine youth and strength; grief when he must go with the "Fighting 69th" overseas; agony when the word comes that he has been killed in action; wild, uncontrollable delight when, in the pink of condition, he comes footing it up Fifth Avenue, under the arches and flags, when the war is over, and a mad mingling of many emotions when he marries. But Vera Gordon must be seen to be appreciated, and when once seen as a "mother" she is never forgotten.

And then and there I told her, with as complete an air of candor as I could assume, that I was a simple American banker living in Paris, that I had come to Geneva for a holiday, that I had quite by accident picked up a handkerchief not intended for me, and that everything which had happened to me since was utterly fantastic and incomprehensible.

"Then you were not really a detective," she asked incredulously.

She looked up with a smile.

Auto Safety Code

Three persons were killed and 14 injured Saturday, while many other names were added to the casualty list Sunday, as a result of automobile accidents, which, judging from the January toll, are expected to claim 25,000 victims this year. Last year 23,000 men, women and children were killed by motor vehicles.

The appalling cost of carelessness and recklessness has prompted a study of the traffic problem by safety organizations and automobile clubs. The street safety committee of the New York Automobile club, according to announcement by the National Safety council, has adopted simple suggestions for motorists, pedestrians and children, which, if practiced, should reduce the rapidly growing list of victims.

For auto owners and operators the following suggestions are made:

Obey traffic rules, signals and commands of traffic officers.

Use tire chains when streets are wet or covered with snow or ice.

Give hand signal when stopping or turning.

Don't read a paper, book or magazine when crossing street.

Obey traffic officers or traffic signal lights.

Don't step into the street from behind a parked auto or other vehicle.

Do not play in the street.

Play on the sidewalk or nearest playground or vacant lot.

Roller skate on sidewalk where vehicles cannot harm you.

Don't "hitch on" autos, street cars or other vehicles.

Never play around autos or touch any of the levers.

Never run between parked autos or other vehicles in the street.

Do not fear the traffic officers—he will help and protect you.

Never run behind a standing street car; there may be another car or auto coming on the other side.

It will pay all persons who use the streets to heed these hints.

Paying For Camp Service

Methods of conducting tourist camps come in for discussion at this time of year. A great many cities and towns in all parts of the country now have such camps. Pennsylvania lists eight camps of this sort located in the open country. They vary in type from an open space among trees to elaborately equipped sites with running water, lights, stoves and other conveniences.

One question in regard to camps which is still unsettled is the advisability of maintaining them free or of charging a nominal fee for their use. Another important question involves the length of time any tourist may remain.

There seems to be a growing opinion that it is wise to charge a little for camp service. It seems to be human nature to have more respect for a thing that is paid for. There are fewer abuses of camp privileges when even as little as 50 cents is paid for a night's stop-over.

The director of Denver's publicity bureau says that after interviewing hundreds of tourists he is convinced that the fee plan is preferred by them. Denver's camp last season took in about $16,000 at 50 cents a tourist, and used the money in improving the camp.

A time limit on the camper is necessary in many places to eliminate not the bona fide tourist but the loafers who are simply trying to escape their just share of the cost of living by hanging out in free camps, only moving on when forced to by local authorities.

Touring has undoubtedly come to stay, and camping out along the way is steadily gaining in popularity. It is therefore only a matter of time and experience until the details of public camp management are successfully worked out.

A MIXED LOT OF MISSES AND CHILDREN SIZES

It seems to me that stories of children go best in batches or groups. So here's a batch:

Little Georgie's mother died. The husband mourned so hard that the mourning job was finished in two months. At the end of those two months the widower married again. Such seemingly unseasonable haste on his part stirred the neighborhood gossips who condemned the daddy and pitied his six-year-old offspring. A lady waylaid Georgie and asked him how he was treated by his new stepmother and whether he liked her.

"Oh, gee," said Georgie, "she's great! I wish I had a stepfather, too!"

The teacher had been telling the young members of her class about the landing of the Pilgrims. She suggested that the youngsters each should draw a picture of the Plymouth Rock.

One little chap started, then hesitated and raised his hand.

"Please, teacher," he asked, "do you want it to be a hen or a rooster?"

"Oh, mother!" she cries out. "Our pussy-cat has got some kittens and I didn't even know she was married!"

Marjorie, aged four, marched into the grocers to tell the news.

"We've got a new baby brother up at our house," she said.

"You don't tell me?" said the grocer. "Is he going to stay with you?"

"I guess so," said Marjorie; "he's got his things off."

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Early for a brisk walk and saw many about I did not expect to see. Among them Eddie Foy's son, Charlie, Irving Berlin and Maxwell Bodenheim. To breakfast and to browse among foreign magazines in a bookshop.

Later with my wife to a jewel shop and saw a pear-shaped diamond valued at $80,000, and other costly baubles, too, but being only there to look, I told the clerk I had heard that if a certain syndicate released all their diamonds they would be as cheap as pebbles, but he declared it untrue.

So home and studied my French lesson, but am making no progress whatever and intend to abandon it. Nor was I ever able to learn a thing from study books. And to casting my accounts and find myself increasingly unprosperous. Thence wearily to bed.

It is a rather grim business for an unknown to shop for expensive jewels in Gotham, although the prospective customer is usually unconscious of the grimness. Unless his reliability is fully known he is subjected to an armed espionage.

He is ushered into a black paneled room where a salesman displays jewels under a single glittering light. At a peep-hole is an all seeing eye and a hand that rests lightly on an automatic. Another armed guard loiters about the door.

This precaution is taken only when there is the slightest suspicion or the customer is not properly vouched for. The hazards are so great in handling precious stones the protection must be certain. And it is for this reason no great robbery ever takes place in a shop.

Jewels are mostly stolen in transit or by cleverly arranged coups. In the great show rooms all the clerks have pistol permits and there are various electrical contrivances at hand to flash word to all precinct police stations.

There are so many bachelor Brummels with butter fingers in the Park avenue purlieus who cannot tie evening bow ties that the manager of a haberdashery shop prospers rather handsomely as expert in aiding them. At first he served many customers as a courtesy, but this took up so much time he decided to charge a slight fee of 50 cents per tie. His work is so deft many prefer his handiwork to that of their valets. A properly tied bow is the most distinguishing feature of correct evening dress.

There is such stilted aloofness when strangers gather in New York that often I feel I'd like to rush off where a stranger greets a stranger with a rousing Rotarian slap on the back. Frequently I find myself abashed at receiving a slight suggestion of a bow in exchange for an enthusiastically outstretched hand. It is beginning to be bad form hereabouts to shake hands at a formal introduction.

Even in club lounges one often notices that starchy stiffness. Sometimes I thing metropolitan congeniality went out when pipe-smoking was relegated to the links and woods. Oddly, the greatest warmth of friendliness is found among the hard-boiled haunts of Broadway.

There are, by the way, two doughty old clubmen who recently had a break in their long friendship. It was one of those feminine quarrels that masculine members of society often indulge. For a year now they have often been seen eating at the same table and occupying neighboring lounge chairs, and yet they have not once spoken since the split.

Salutes and Ceremonies.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 29.—There have been issued recently new army regulations on salutes and ceremonies which, while they do not include many actual changes, are in some ways more explicit. To the average civilian military salutes and ceremonies are more or less mysterious but exceedingly impressive, although during the World war so many civilians became soldiers that a larger percentage of the population now has an understanding of just what should be done when the flag passes or when the national anthem is played, than had formerly.

In the new regulations many fine points are elucidated. For instance, in the paragraph telling what officers and enlisted men should do whenever the national anthem or "To the Colors" is sounded, particular instructions are given with regard to those mounted on animals or riding in vehicles. The former will halt and render the salute mounted.

"Vehicles in motion will be brought to a halt. Occupants of vehicles (except drivers) will dismount. Drivers of vehicles will sit at 'attention.' Individuals leading animals or standing to horses will stand at 'attention' but will not salute."

Also in the new regulations what is meant by out of doors, indoors, and under arms is carefully defined. The old rules merely gave instructions regarding salutes out of doors and indoors. It is now explained that drill halls, riding halls, gymnasiums, and other roofed inclosures used for drill or exercise of troops are considered out of doors.

Therefore all officers upon meeting in any such places must salute, the junior first, except in certain specified cases. An officer of whatever rank when making a report to the representative of a common superior, as for instance, the adjutant or officer of the day, will salute first. Salutes are not required when officers meet if either is driving a vehicle.

Indoors is described as referring to offices, hallway, kitchens, orderly rooms, amusement rooms, bath rooms, dwellings, etc. Officers are not required to salute each other in any of those place unless making or receiving an official report. Enlisted men and officers ordinarily do not salute each other when indoors unless they are addressing each other.

Saluting an Officer.

When an officer enters a room, however, an enlisted man must stand at attention until he leaves or indicates otherwise. When there are more than one enlisted man in the room the first one who sees the officer calls "attention" and the others immediately rise. This becomes practically second nature with men in the service and an example of this is told of several members of the Marine Corps. These boys had just completed a course which prepared them for commissions and it was only a matter of a few days when they would receive their commissions as second lieutenants. They were, therefore, "sitting pretty" and really did not necessarily need to "make character" with any of the officers. A young first lieutenant wandered in thinking to have a chat with them, since they were so soon to become brother officers. Two of them were having a game of chess, one was reading, and the fourth was asleep. As soon as the officer entered the room one of the chess players called "'tenshun" and they all immediately rose, even the one who had been taking a nap.

The various salutes with guns have always been of particular interest to civilians. The national salute, as probably every one knows, is 21 guns and this is also the salute to a national flag. It is provided in the regulations that on July 4 at noon at every military post, which has the proper artillery, there shall be fired a salute to the Union. This is commemorative of the Declaration of Independence and consists of one gun for each state.

On the 30th of May, Memorial Day, the national flag is displayed at half-staff from reveille until noon at all posts and camps. Just before noon appropriate music is played by the

The Pennsylvania Railroad

The World's Greatest Transportation System

The story of the growth of the Pennsylvania Railroad System closely parallels the rise of the ideas of American nationalism and unity.

Following the close of the Revolutionary War, and during the first decades of the nineteenth century, the population of the United States was still concentrated almost entirely on or close to a narrow strip of seaboard. The Allegheny Mountains were the frontier. Beyond them the total population was extremely small.

Inland travel and transportation west of the Allegheny Mountains was centered largely upon the Ohio-Mississippi-Missouri rivers and the Great Lakes.

Keen rivalry between New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore for the growing and prospective western trade developed. The position and future outlook of Philadelphia was seriously threatened by the construction of the Erie Canal, and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad which planned a line into Pittsburgh.

These three factors brought about a situation which resulted in linking Philadelphia and Pittsburgh by a series of rails, rivers and canals as remarkable as any in the world's history, and to which the Pennsylvania System owes its origin.

Thus, while the inception of the Pennsylvania was purely a local project, it has been developed into a national medium of transportation. By reason of its extent, the character of the territory it serves, and its highly developed traffic, The Standard Railroad of the World comes nearer to being a completely integrated system than any now existing.

The Pennsylvania owns and operates more than 27,000 miles of tracks. Its lines traverse thirteen states and the District of Columbia, containing nearly half the country's population, about two-thirds of the entire national wealth, and serving an even greater proportion of the country's industrial, commercial, mining and agricultural enterprises.

A great measure of credit is due The Pennsylvania System for the industrial and commercial development not only of East Liverpool, but for the entire Ohio Valley. The people in this territory are justifiably proud to be served by the world's greatest transportation system.

The World's Greatest Transportation System

The story of the growth of the Pennsylvania Railroad System closely parallels the rise of the ideas of American nationalism and unity.

Following the close of the Revolutionary War, and during the first decades of the nineteenth century, the population of the United States was still concentrated almost entirely on or close to a narrow strip of seaboard. The Allegheny Mountains were the frontier. Beyond them the total population was extremely small.

Inland travel and transportation west of the Allegheny Mountains was centered largely upon the Ohio-Mississippi-Missouri rivers and the Great Lakes.

Keen rivalry between New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore for the growing and prospective western trade developed. The position and future outlook of Philadelphia was seriously threatened by the construction of the Erie Canal, and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad which planned a line into Pittsburgh.

These three factors brought about a situation which resulted in linking Philadelphia and Pittsburgh by a series of rails, rivers and canals as remarkable as any in the world's history, and to which the Pennsylvania System owes its origin.

Thus, while the inception of the Pennsylvania was purely a local project, it has been developed into a national medium of transportation. By reason of its extent, the character of the territory it serves, and its highly developed traffic, The Standard Railroad of the World comes nearer to being a completely integrated system than any now existing.

The Pennsylvania owns and operates more than 27,000 miles of tracks. Its lines traverse thirteen states and the District of Columbia, containing nearly half the country's population, about two-thirds of the entire national wealth, and serving an even greater proportion of the country's industrial, commercial, mining and agricultural enterprises.

A great measure of credit is due The Pennsylvania System for the industrial and commercial development not only of East Liverpool, but for the entire Ohio Valley. The people in this territory are justifiably proud to be served by the world's greatest transportation system.

J. H. BAILEY'S FUNERAL TODAY

Services Held in Second Presbyterian Church.

Funeral services for Joseph H. Bailey, 57, who died in his home, Dewey avenue, last Friday, after six days' illness, were conducted in the Second Presbyterian church, Virginia avenue, this afternoon, in charge of Rev. Frederic A. Dean, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. George C. Westlake, pastor of the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal church. Burial was made in Locust Hill cemetery, near Chester.

Mr. Bailey was born in Pleasant county, Ohio, December 4, 1869, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher W. Bailey. He was an engineer and was employed at the Harker pottery for many years. He was a member of the Second Presbyterian church.

His first wife nee Eva Pugh, died in January, 1921. In June, 1923, he married Mrs. Rose Bailey. Besides his widow, he is survived by one son, Lawrence Bailey, and the following brothers and sisters: Owen S. Bailey and Mrs. Nancy Wherry, St. Marys, W. Va.; Calvin H. Bailey, Beloit; Mrs. Fannie Kidder, East Liverpool. Three half brothers, Wasson, Everett and John Bailey, all of Chester, and a half sister, Mrs. John Talbert, of Newell, also survive.

BOYCE CHURCH REVIVAL MEETS

Approximately 140 persons have professed conversion in the revival services which have been in progress at the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church, East End, for the last two weeks.

The campaign which is in charge of Rev. J. Lloyd McQueen, pastor, assisted by John Guy, song leader and personal worker, will continue for another week.

To Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to make. Saves about $2.

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is, pine has a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. This makes a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold instantly. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, bronchitis and hoarseness.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

How Children Quickly Gain Robust Health

For weak, puny, inactive children—and especially those that have rickets, and need a sure builder that promotes the growth of teeth and bones, cod liver oil is the one medicine supreme—nothing helps like it.

But it is nasty and repulsive and evil smelling and nearly always upsets children's stomachs—so now up-to-date pharmacists advise McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, with their wealth of vitamines.

Children love them as they do candy, because they are sugar coated and easy to take. One boy gained 11½ pounds in seven weeks, and is now healthy and happy—thousands of other children have grown strong and robust.

Sixty tablets for 60 cents at druggists everywhere. Try them for 30 days and if you are not happily satisfied with the test get your money back. But demand McCoy's—it pays to get the genuine.

Rheumatism can't be rubbed away

Are you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S. S. S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered from rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried most everything. Went to Hot Springs and finally I decided to try S. S. S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I also had a breaking out on my hands for years that nothing would heal, but now this has disappeared and I am sure that it was S. S. S. which removed the cause. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S. S. S. is the best." Carl C. Campbell, 115 West Main street, Johnson City, Tenn.

S. S. S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Mrs. J. T. Williamson Hostess at Bible Literary Club Meet

Mrs. J. T. Williamson received the members of the Bible Literary club Saturday afternoon at her home in Vine street. Mrs. C. T. Larkins presided. Responses to roll call were religious current events. "Preachers and their Messages" was the study.

Mrs. C. L. Brokaw described the lineal ancestors of Charles H. Spurgeon, his own personality, education and power to attract large congregations by his practical sermons. Mrs. W. O. Bloor gave sketches of the most important events in the life of Henry Ward Beecher. His intense earnestness, his attitude toward the science of the times, his simple childlike faith, and magnetic power were special points. Mrs. W. T. McNutt told of the natural gladness in the religious family of Philip Brooks, American clergyman and author. His activities in service for the soldiers, his broad mind and large sympathies, sincerity and direct appeals to watchfulness over character and action were main topics. Mrs. H. F. Laughlin told the history of "Abide With Me" and concluded with the solo.

Miss Rachel Williamson of Parkersburg, W. Va., was a guest.

The next meeting will be held February 12, at the home of Mrs. Frank Crook, West Fifth street.

Smith-Brown Marriage.

Of interest to local friends and relatives is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Frances B. Smith of Parkersburg, W. Va., and W. K. Downs of Point Pleasant, W. Va. The ceremony took place December 24, in the parsonage of the First Baptist church in Columbus, with Rev. T. J. Van Gilder officiating. The bride is a sister of Mrs. William Pepper of Westfield.

Golden Eagle Club Euchre Party.

A euchre party was held Friday evening in the G. A. R. hall, East Fourth and Washington streets, under auspices of the Golden Eagle club. Mrs. Allan Bloor was in charge.

Twelve tables were in play. Trophies were awarded Miss Alma Howell, Mrs. Chandler Moore, Miss Rose Bowers, James Parker, Henry Holland and Willis Moore.

Refreshments were served by the social committee, with Mrs. Fred Haney as chairman.

WELLSVILLE C. OF C. MAY APPOINT CITY ENGINEER

WHEELING MAN IS CONSIDERED FOR POST HERE

Directors Will Discuss Proposal Tomorrow Night.

$1,000 SALARY

D. E. Spotswood May Make Industrial Survey.

Employment of D. E. Spotswood, of Wheeling, as a civic engineer for the city of Wellsville, at a salary of $1,000 annually, will be considered by directors and officers of the Wellsville chamber of commerce at a meeting tomorrow night in the city hall building, Fifth and Main street.

Advisability of engaging Spotswood, who has been working in the Wheeling-Bridgeport-Bellaire district for some time has been under consideration by the chamber for several days following a conference with the civic engineer last week.

Among the engineer's preliminary duties, in the event that his services are engaged tomorrow night, will be the completion of an industrial survey of the city, and steps for procuring new industries for the district.

SUNDAY BLAZE DAMAGES HOME

RAILROAD MAN INJURED WHEN HIT BY BRICK

William Quinn Hurt Following Dennison Wreck.

GOES TO HOSPITAL

Struck in Face as Workmen Unload Derailed Car.

Struck in the face with a brick, thrown from a derailed freight car near Dennison yesterday, William Quinn, 29, Pennsylvania railroad employe, and former resident of Wellsville, today was forced to enter a Cleveland hospital for treatment.

Quinn, who resided in Broadway prior to his transfer to Dennison, has been engaged as a signal man.

A freight train and a passenger train collided near Dennison and workers were employed in cleaning off the tracks when Quinn passed one of the cars loaded with brick. Men at the time were engaged in throwing the bricks out of the car. Quinn called to the crew but, apparently, he was unheard and as he passed one of the bricks hit him directly in the face.

D. A. Forbes, Wood street, today received word of the death of a sister, Mrs. Jeanette Gunn, 60 years old, which occurred Saturday afternoon in Iowa Falls, Iowa.

She was born in the Scotch Settlement and will be remembered by many there where she taught school for a number of years. She moved to Iowa approximately 20 years ago.

In addition to her husband, who is engaged as a stock raiser, she is survived by four brothers and a sister: D. A. Forbes and James Forbes, of Wellsville; William M. Forbes, Laughlin Forbes and Mrs. A. N. Campbell, of the Scoten Settlement.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock with burial in Iowa Falls.

Would Become Citizen.

Michael Durovcik, 27 years old, of R. F. D. No. 2, has filed a request with Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine for naturalization papers. The applicant is a native of Chechoslovakia. He arrived in New York on Nov. 15, 1923.

600 PERSONS HEAR SERMON BY DR. KNAPP

"Out of Pit" Theme of Sunday Evening Discourse.

TWO SERVICES

City's Greatest Asset is Human Soul, Says Evangelist.

More than 600 persons filled to near capacity the auditorium, Sunday school room, gallery and connecting spaces of the Methodist Protestant church last evening as Dr. W. A. Knapp, Westerville, Ohio evangelist emphasized in an outstanding sermon the love of God for sinners. His theme was "Out of the Pit."

The service culminated a notable day of religious activity by the congregation that started in the morning with the Sunday school exceeding its designated quota of 303 by 75, a total of 378 attending. Thirteen classes had their entire enrollments out. Then followed the first of Dr. Knapp's two sermons which a large throng heard, while in the afternoon teams of men visited various sections of the city in the interest of potential and former members of the local denomination.

Mrs. G. E. Vinaroff, who is assisting in musical features at evangelistic services at the First Methodist Protestant church.

Thrilled by the interest shown during the initial week of the campaign the program for the second includes a cross service on Tuesday evening which is promised to be one of the most unique of the revival in that the cross will be featured in sermon and song. On Wednesday, "Friendship Night" will be observed when members are to bring their closest friends to the meeting.

A mother and daughter night, an unprecedent revival feature hereabouts, will be noted on Thursday evening when reserved seats are to be kept for the large feminine contingent expected while the men attending will be shunted to the galleries and side rooms. Gifts will be presented the oldest and youngest mothers present.

On Friday night the service will be reversed with men and boys attending. To the man bringing in the largest number a useful gift will be given. The children as on last Saturday night will form the special feature with singing of songs for which they are daily practicing.

The Sunday night musical service included the song, "It's a Great Salvation," by a group of boys; an appealing number of Mrs. Vinaroff, accompanied by Miss Jessie Hall, who with the former as pianist utilized the organ during the choral number directed by Mr. Viranoff, "Wonderful Grace of Jesus." The latter's solo at the conclusion of Dr. Knapp's sermon, "Christ is Walking Everywhere," was very well received.

The day's invocations were by the pastor, Rev. John F. Dimit.

No services will be held this evening as Monday is the rest day of the campaign.

By reason of the large Sunday school attendance of the day a new goal, that of 403, has been set for next Sunday.

"The devil never gave any one trouble over sin. He is satisfied with it," declared Dr. Knapp. "It is God who makes it bitter by taking peace and joy from it by having the Holy Spirit convict us of sin. Thus we are brought into a realization of the need of Christ so that it might be nullified in our souls and forgiven. The devil likewise makes all of our doubts as God arranges for conviction.

Dr. Knapp pointed out how modernists and the intelligensia of the day had changed the idea given by the fathers and the Bible concerning sin. "They had laughed out of court the old doctrine of total depravity, giving it a superficial treatment as the consciousness of imperfection and the failure to attain our ideals," he said.

"The overt act of sin goes back to the heart. Its hideousness and potentialities can not be dissipated until its cause is located.

Despite the heinousness of sin Dr. Knapp declared God loved the sinner as he does the sinless. "Once this fact is assimilated all sins save the persistent refusal to accept Christ can be forgiven by Him once the sinner shows repentance. "Thus he puts our sins behind His back and remembers them against us no more."

East Liverpool's greatest asset is not a pottery, a bank or any other of its business institutions, but one of its human souls, said Dr. Knapp on Saturday night. "The soul of one of these boys and girls will outlive all of these institutions. A man will unhesitatingly jump into a river to save another's life. But how many, failing to realize the soul's worth will attempt to bring it into saving relationship with God. The Christian knows the soul's value trancends all wealth, fame, power and pleasure that is possible on earth. He leads the unselfish, not the selfish, life. He apparently, losing his life here by reason of lacking what the world holds as pertinent; and in doing so, finds it. The sinner on the contrary, in his worldly acquirements, seemingly winning, finds in the end that he has lost it 'For what shall a man give for his soul.'

Appealingly featuring Saturday night's service was the singing of a children's choir, trained by Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Vinaroff. Lined across the front of the church they drew applause with their song: "I Have a Joy in My Heart." The solo of Mr. Vinaroff was "Somebody Needs Even You." The invocation was by Mrs. Burbick.

Bulgaria took a prominent part in the fair at Saloniki, Greece, recently, and helped to make the event a great success.

Columbus Fire Fighter Praises Tanlac

J. E. Owen led a strenuous life. At 53 the strain told and health gave way. For several months a victim of stomach trouble. Now in rugged health, gives full credit to Tanlac.

Mr. Owen is well and favorably known in Columbus, Ohio, which city he has served faithfully for many years. He lives at 40 Clarendon Ave. To use Mr. Owen's words, "As a result of poor eating and worse digestion, I developed a bad case of stomach trouble, which ran me down and kept me in low condition for months.

"My stomach seemed to go wrong all of a sudden and would neither retain nor digest even the lightest food. It was sour, gassy and bloated most of the time, and kept me in misery. I felt draggy and without the slightest energy. My weight dropped from 170 to 140 pounds and I kept getting weaker.

"It wasn't a week after taking Tanlac till I was feeling 100 per cent better. Four bottles put my stomach in A-1 condition and left me eating like a house afire. Now I eat what I please without discomfort. That draggy feeling gave way to my old time vigor and I'm back again at my normal 170 lb. weight. And all in a few weeks! I praise Tanlac all the time."

If overwork or neglect have lowered your health, try Tanlac. It is nature's body builder, made of herbs, roots and barks. Your druggist has it. Over 52 million bottles sold.

RAILROAD MAN INJURED WHEN HIT BY BRICK

William Quinn Hurt Following Dennison Wreck.

GOES TO HOSPITAL

Struck in the face with a brick, thrown from a derailed freight car near Dennison yesterday, William Quinn, 29, Pennsylvania railroad employe, and former resident of Wellsville, today was forced to enter a Cleveland hospital for treatment.

Quinn, who resided in Broadway prior to his transfer to Dennison, has been engaged as a signal man.

A freight train and a passenger train collided near Dennison and workers were employed in cleaning off the tracks when Quinn passed one of the cars loaded with brick. Men at the time were engaged in throwing the bricks out of the car. Quinn called to the crew but, apparently, he was unheard and as he passed one of the bricks hit him directly in the face.

LEGISLATIVE JAM FACES CONGRESS IN NINTH WEEK

MANY BILLS BELIEVED TO BE FOREDOOMED

CLAMOR BEGINS

No Organized Movement for Extra Session After March 4.

BY WILLIAM S. NEAL.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Congress began its ninth week today facing a legislative jam which, leaders admit, foredooms most of the important bills now pending.

Not a single piece of major legislation has passed both houses with the exception of appropriation bills. Nor is there at present a definitely organized movement for an extra session after March 4th.

Farm relief, Muscle Shoals and Boulder dam loomed today as the most important controversal issues yet to be decided. Backers of a dozen other measures are clamoring for recognition.

The situation apparently does not alarm congressional leaders. The chief purpose of the short session they point out, is to make appropriations. The country, too, they say, is clamoring for fewer laws rather than more.

Program Not Touched.

Swerved from its legislative course by the international situation and the fight over the seats of Senator Gould (R.) of Maine, Senator-designate Frank L. Smith of Illinois and the Cyrus Woods nomination, the senate has not touched the program laid down by its steering committee.

This program includes the Gooding long and short haul bill, the Capper truth-in-fabric bill, Boulder dam, the French spoliation claims, two prohibition reorganization bills, and reorganization of foreign commerce bureau.

House leaders have given right of way to the agricultural surplus bill. The house may consider a bill to dispose of Muscle Shoals, a reapportionment bill, soldiers' loan measure and the Swing-Johnson Boulder dam bill unless buried by the rules committee. The Parker railroad consolidation bill is still in committee.

The senate now has before it the alien property, McFadden branch banking and radio control measures which have been approved by the house. The radio compromise is expected to be accepted while the fate of the other two measures is doubtful.

Two of President Coolidge's most important recommendations—the coal industry regulation bill and a tax rebate—fell by the wayside early in the session.

Congress apparently will write its session record in the total of its appropriation bills, and what it does not do rather than what it does do.

Francis, Belknap Are Acquitted by Steubenville Jury

Attorney John Belknap, former probate judge of Jefferson county, and former Congressman W. B Francis, Martins Ferry, directors in the defunct Union Savings bank of Yorkville, were acquitted upon indictments charging them with filing a fraudulent certificate of deposit for $50,000 in the bank, in Steubenville

Thomas F. Jones, vice president of the bank, and W. E. Jones, cashier, who were indicted upon the same charges, entered pleas of guilty, and will be sentenced by Judge Charles Turnbaugh on Thursday or Friday.

TWO MEN DIE IN SHARON FIGHTS

SHARON, Pa., Jan. 31.—Michael Sneller, 40, and Michael Marenchin, 33, are dead here today as the result of fights.

Sneller was shot by his brother, Stephen, 17, police allege, after the elder brother had threatened his sister.

Marko Kralvoich is being held in connection with Marenchin's death. latter was felled by a blow of Kralovich's fist and fell to the sidewalk, fracturing his skull.

Employes of the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles company will hold a dance at the park on Wednesday, February 9. Oliver Naylor's Victor recording orchestra will play during the week of Feb. 7.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Industrial stocks in the early trading today were under the influence of the short covering which produced the closing rally of prices on Saturday. The week-end developments in the Chinese, Nicaraguan and Mexican "situations" were gradualy favorable and the street was inclined to ignore the $15,900,000 deficit reported in the weekly clearing house statement.

Brisk buying was resumed in a number of railroad stocks, including New Haven and Chesapeake and Ohio. New financing of the latter system in the amount of $60,000,000 is expected to take the form of a stock issue, the interstate commerce commission having refused to sanction a bond issue to reimburse the Treasury for expenditures on capital account. Strength in New Haven is due to expectation of a resumption of dividends this year. Buoyancy in the industrials was generally confined to stocks in which a heavy short interest existed.

General Motors sold up 2¾ and Baldwin advanced about a point. Motors and Independent Oils were firm, with Sinclair preferred leading the latter group. This stock sold at 103, the highest price in the history of the company and reflected the gradual strengthening of the financial position of Sinclair consolidated.

Professionals were active in the tobacco stocks and a few of the specialties but outside speculative interest in these stocks was negligible. Stocks of the amusement companies were pushed along to slightly higher price levels, under the lead of Loews Inc., which sold above 53. Tire stocks and automobile accessory stocks were also inclined to slightly higher levels.

The commodity markets were quiet, with prices steady. Call money renewals 4 per cent unchanged from last Saturday.

LINER CELTIC SAILS AFTER CRASH AT SEA

Famous Ocean Greyhound in Collision With Freighter.

650 ARE ABOARD

Shipping Back on Schedule After 48-hour Fog.

BOSTON, Jan. 31.—Ten hours after she arrived in port from New York, with two gaping holes in her iron plates and a huge anchor clinging to 20 feet of battered railing, the White Star liner Celtic sailed today for Queenstown.

The famous ocean greyhound, with 650 persons aboard, including 252 passengers for Europe, was in collision with the American Diamond freighter Anaconda, in a fog 25 miles east of Fire island.

The Anaconda reached New York in safety, and as soon as the Celtic docked here to pick up 90 more passengers repairmen went to work on a rush job.

Ferryboat Goes Aground.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Promised at least partial lifting today of the dense fog which for more than 48 hours had cloaked the north Atlantic coast in an impenetrable shroud, the shipping world strove to get back on schedule after having been completely tied up over the week-end.

Almost no shipping moved during the period, and those ships which did move did so at their peril. The S. S. Celtic, crack trans-Atlantic liner of the White Star fleet, left Boston today after receiving emergency repairs to two large holes ripped in her port side when she collided near Fire island Saturday night with the Diamond line freighter Anaconda.

A ferryboat went aground on Governor's island with four hundred passengers aboard. She was later pulled off and resumed her voyage.

Fear that the fishing boat Nancy B., out of Sheepshead bay, with 15 men aboard, had met with disaster in the fog was expressed today when a radio appeal to coast-wise shipping failed to locate the little craft. The Nancy B. left Sheepshead bay at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and was scheduled to return at 6 o'clock last night.

Dr. George Gourley Re-elected Finance Company President

Dr. George F. Gourley, Steubenville, was re-elected president of the Columbiana County Finance company, at the annual meeting of the stockholders at its offices, 121 West Sixth street, it was announced today.

Other officers named were: George Steele, East Liverpool, vice-president; W. S. Foulks, East Liverpool, treasurer; W. H. Shaw, East Liverpool, secretary.

Shaw was re-elected manager of the company.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Jan. 31.—With 27 men aboard but in no immediate danger, the steamship Anthony O'Boyle, Norfolk for Boston with coal, was on the rocks in the lifting fog off Robinson's hole, here today.

The ship was leaking badly and tugs were sent to her assistance.

Two Men Hurt as Coupe Overturns And "Gas" Ignites

Ralph Lowe, automoblie accessory salesman, and Leonard Stevenson West Ninth street garage owner, received minor injuries when the Dodge coupe, which they were driving, skidded and overturned on the Long's Run hill, north of Stop 55 on the Y. & O. railroad Saturday.

The machine caught fire from gasoline leading from the vacuum system following the accident and the two men were forced to break the glass in the doors of the car to make their escape. The car was destroyed.

Lowe returned to East Liverpool, secured another car and drove to Cleveland where he was attended by a physician in a hotel. Stevenson whose left leg was injured, returned home today.

COURT BARS 'PEACHES' DIARY

Letters by Browning's Bride Also Are Excluded.

COURT HOUSE, WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 31.—"Peaches" Browning's diary of her flapper days before she met her elderly millionaire husband, Edward W. ("Daddy") Browning, will not be admitted as evidence, Justice Albert Seeger ruled at the resumption of the Browning separation trial today.

Miss Marion Tussey was recalled to the stand and questioned by Attorney Mack.

Miss Tussey testified that Bondy Croner, her landlord, told her if she wanted to make some money she should testify for Browning.

Bondy Croner was then called to the stand.

"Did Miss Tussey tell you that 'Peaches' wanted her to act as a witness for her?" Mack asked.

"Yes."

"Did Mr. Browning say he would make it interesting for Miss Tussey if she testified for him?"

"He did not."

Under cross-examination by Epstein, Croner admitted he called up Browning last Saturday and told him Miss Tussey was home and ready to be subpoenaed.

"Did you get anything?"

"Yes—five dollars."

The witness admitted he got $5 on another occasion.

Miss Margaret Leu, was the next witness. She said she was present at an interview between Croner and Miss Tussey.

Mrs. Louisa Croner, wife of Croner, was then called.

Leslie Fullenwelder, a representative of the Famous Features syndicate, was next. He told of an interview with "Peaches" in the presence of her mother.

The witness testified that the price agreed upon for "Peaches'" own story of her experience with Browning was $1,000.

STEAMER SINKS; 30 MEN SAVED

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31. — The American steamship Juvigny sank in Delaware river bay near Reedy island after colliding with the British freighter Valemore early today. According to reports reaching here, the 30 members of the crew were picked up by the Valemore and are enroute here.

Crash is believed to have been caused by a dense fog reported hanging over the bay.

Change of Venue Motion in Rudner Case Before Court

CANTON, Jan. 31.—A motion for a change of venue in the trial of Ben Rudner, alleged member of the assassin band which murdered Don R. Mellett, was scheduled to be heard here late this afternoon before Common Pleas Judge A. W. Agler.

E. L. Mills, attorney for Rudner, filed the motion several weeks ago, basing his plea on the charge that prejudice caused by newspaper articles would preclude a fair and impartial trial for his client.

Pool Room Visitor Faces Court Count Of "Breaking Glass"

Paul "Smoky" Marshall will face Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon upon a charge of "breaking glass in a pool room."

Marshall was arrested by Patrolman Herman Roth in the American pool room at 6:15 Saturday night after he is alleged to have hurled a bottle to the floor. The bottle was smashed and its contents scattered about the floor.

Marshall was a liberty today under a $25 bond.

SCHOOL CHIEF CLUB SPEAKER

C. A. White, Lisbon, Makes Address at Y. M. C. A.

Charles A. White, principal of the Lisbon High school and a former member of the state legislature, addressed members of the Sunday Afternoon club in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Sixty-one young men, between the ages of 16 and 26 attended the meeting.

Special music was rendered by an instrumental trio. In his address White said:

"The United States is the greatest nation on earth. The Mayflower pact, drawn up by the Pilgrims, was the beginning of our government. If England had allowed the colonists representation in the house of commons there would have been no United States.

"The war lasted six years from Lexington to Yorktown. The declaration of independence was drafted and accepted on July 4, 1776. Congress was composed of 55 men. They had no government except the articles of confederation.

LEGISLATIVE JAM FACES CONGRESS IN NINTH WEEK

MANY BILLS BELIEVED TO BE FOREDOOMED

CLAMOR BEGINS

No Organized Movement for Extra Session After March 4.

BY WILLIAM S. NEAL.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Congress began its ninth week today facing a legislative jam which, leaders admit, foredooms most of the important bills now pending.

Not a single piece of major legislation has passed both houses with the exception of appropriation bills. Nor is there at present a definitely organized movement for an extra session after March 4th.

Farm relief, Muscle Shoals and Boulder dam loomed today as the most important controversal issues yet to be decided. Backers of a dozen other measures are clamoring for recognition.

The situation apparently does not alarm congressional leaders. The chief purpose of the short session they point out, is to make appropriations. The country, too, they say, is clamoring for fewer laws rather than more.

Program Not Touched.

Swerved from its legislative course by the international situation and the fight over the seats of Senator Gould (R.) of Maine, Senator-designate Frank L. Smith of Illinois and the Cyrus Woods nomination, the senate has not touched the program laid down by its steering committee.

This program includes the Gooding long and short haul bill, the Capper truth-in-fabric bill, Boulder dam, the French spoliation claims, two prohibition reorganization bills, and reorganization of foreign commerce bureau.

House leaders have given right of way to the agricultural surplus bill. The house may consider a bill to dispose of Muscle Shoals, a reapportionment bill, soldiers' loan measure and the Swing-Johnson Boulder dam bill unless buried by the rules committee. The Parker railroad consolidation bill is still in committee.

The senate now has before it the alien property, McFadden branch banking and radio control measures which have been approved by the house. The radio compromise is expected to be accepted while the fate of the other two measures is doubtful.

Two of President Coolidge's most important recommendations—the coal industry regulation bill and a tax rebate—fell by the wayside early in the session.

Congress apparently will write its session record in the total of its appropriation bills, and what it does not do rather than what it does do.

Employes of the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles company will hold a dance at the park on Wednesday, February 9. Oliver Naylor's Victor recording orchestra will play during the week of Feb. 7.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Industrial stocks in the early trading today were under the influence of the short covering which produced the closing rally of prices on Saturday. The week-end developments in the Chinese, Nicaraguan and Mexican "situations" were gradualy favorable and the street was inclined to ignore the $15,900,000 deficit reported in the weekly clearing house statement.

Brisk buying was resumed in a number of railroad stocks, including New Haven and Chesapeake and Ohio. New financing of the latter system in the amount of $60,000,000 is expected to take the form of a stock issue, the interstate commerce commission having refused to sanction a bond issue to reimburse the Treasury for expenditures on capital account. Strength in New Haven is due to expectation of a resumption of dividends this year. Buoyancy in the industrials was generally confined to stocks in which a heavy short interest existed.

General Motors sold up 2½ and Baldwin advanced about a point. Motors and Independent Oils were firm, with Sinclair preferred leading the latter group. This stock sold at 103, the highest price in the history of the company and reflected the gradual strengthening of the financial position of Sinclair consolidated.

Professionals were active in the tobacco stocks and a few of the specialties but outside speculative interest in these stocks was negligible. Stocks of the amusement companies were pushed along to slightly higher price levels, under the lead of Loews Inc., which sold above 53. Tire stocks and automobile accessory stocks were also inclined to slightly higher levels.

The commodity markets were quiet, with prices steady. Call money renewals 4 per cent unchanged from last Saturday.

Change of Venue Motion in Rudner Case Before Court

CANTON, Jan. 31.—A motion for a change of venue in the trial of Ben Rudner, alleged member of the assassin band which murdered Don R. Mellett, was scheduled to be heard here late this afternoon before Common Pleas Judge A. W. Agler.

E. L. Mills, attorney for Rudner, filed the motion several weeks ago, basing his plea on the charge that prejudice caused by newspaper articles would preclude a fair and impartial trial for his client.

George Gordon Battle, of New York City, has been added to Rudner's defense counsel.

Pool Room Visitor Faces Court Count Of "Breaking Glass"

Paul "Smoky" Marshall will face Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon upon a charge of "breaking glass in a pool room."

Marshall was arrested by Patrolman Herman Roth in the American pool room at 6:15 Saturday night after he is alleged to have hurled a bottle to the floor. The bottle was smashed and its contents scattered about the floor.

Marshall was a liberty today under a $25 bond.

Auto Driver Fined $50 and Loses Right to License

Harvey Hull, Riley avenue, was fined $50 and costs and his automobile license suspended for 90 days when he pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated upon arraignment before Municipal Judge Hanley in police court, today.

Hull was arrested by Captain Conley at 6:15 o'clock Saturday night after he is alleged to have crashed into a Grandview car near the McKinley school. He paid his fine and was ordered to deposit the plates of his car with the police until May 1.

That sounds more like Hollywood history than real history. But if the thing really happened it would be worth while to find some of the spy's younger sisters and scatter them around in Europe, or possibly even on this side of the ocean.

LADY RHONDDA, British business woman, said, "Existence of the leisured woman constitutes a grave menace to civilization," but it really doesn't. Eve, a "leisured woman," might have kept out of mischief, with a sewing machine or typewriter to keep her busy. He descendants have done fairly well, however.

A WOMAN must have twenty-five years of study and leisure, then twenty years to produce and bring up children. The rest of her life should include leisure to inspire men with ambitious energy. Women ought not to work, only create, and inspire dull male workers.

IT may comfort you to know that there is prosperity somewhere. New York's Park Avenue association says that street leads the world for "concentrated private buying power." A prosperous little group living in Park avenue has $280,000,000 to spend on luxuries, on things pleasant, but not necessary. The average annual income in that modern canyon of fashion and wealth is $75,000. Where money is, business goes.

MR. FRANKLIN SIMON, of New York, a merchant who knows business, has said that Park avenue, before long, will be one of the greatest retail streets in the whole world. You might buy yourself a lot there.

SCHOOL CHIEF CLUB SPEAKER

C. A. White, Lisbon, Makes Address at Y. M. C. A.

Charles A. White, principal of the Lisbon High school and a former member of the state legislature, addressed members of the Sunday Afternoon club in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Sixty-one young men, between the ages of 16 and 26 attended the meeting.

Special music was rendered by an instrumental trio. In his address White said:

"The United States is the greatest nation on earth. The Mayflower pact, drawn up by the Pilgrims, was the beginning of our government. If England had allowed the colonists representation in the house of commons there would have been no United States.

"The war lasted six years from Lexington to Yorktown. The declaration of independence was drafted and accepted on July 4, 1776. Congress was composed of 55 men. They had no government except the articles of confederation.

"George Washington was unanimously chosen president of the constitutional congress. Benjamin Franklin suggested prayer in congress and thereafter the sessions were opened each morning with prayer. Gladstone said that the Declaration of Independence is 'the greatest piece of work ever struck off by the human brain.' It is up to us to live for America, exalt America, love America, and if need be die for America."

ARMY AND AIR FORCES PLAN BIG MANEUVER

Texas Will Witness Peace Time Military Display.

SUMMER EVENT

Famous Second Division Will be Central Unit.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas—The greatest army maneuver ever staged in peace time will be held during the coming summer, if sufficient funds to carry out the plans can be obtained, high army officials of this area have announced.

The tactical plan will be built around the Second Division, famous war-time regular army division which saw such hard and gallant service around Chateau Thierry and other hard- fought fields in France. This division, it was learned, is practically the only one of the famous war-time divisions left intact.

Several army air corps groups also are to be brought in from the different flying fields throughout the country to participate in the great maneuver, it was said by army officials.

Present plans, not yet perfected, call for the presence of the First Pursuit Group of Selfridge Field, Michigan; the Second Bombardment Group, from Langley Field, Virginia; and the third Attack Group, from Fort Crockett, Texas. The aerial forces also will include the fighting units stationed at Brooks and Kelly Fieds, here.

Such a concentration of aerial forces would bring practically the entire army air corps here for the maneuvers, including the latest speedy scouting planes, the heavy Martin bombers and new models of fighting aircraft.

It was learned that Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air forces, discussed the proposed maneuvers with high army officers during his visit here last month, when he attended the "take-off" of the army's "around South America" contingent.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

"Purges" and "Physics" Bad for Old Folks

While Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, knew that constipation was the curse of advancing age, he did not believe that a "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

To him, it seemed cruel that so many constipated old people had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to "regulate" the bowels of old folks. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but each dose helps to strengthen the bowel muscles, shortly establishing natural "regularity." It never gripes, sickens, or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

If past fifty, buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

REPORT MADE ON SEAL DRIVE

Figures for County Show Increase of $200 Over Last Year.

Mrs. J. A. Todd, chairman of the Hancock County Tuberculosis league which had charge of the annual Christmas sale of seals, today announced the results of the campaign in Grant, Butler and Clay districts showing total sales of $1,176.

Report by districts: Grant, exclusive of Chester, $206.57; Clay district, $65.74; New Cumberland, $204.41; Weirton, Holliday's Cove and Butler district rural schools, $700.05.

Brooklyn school, Grant district, continues the banner rural school in the county, selling $17 in the last campaign. This is the sixth consecutive year this school has sold more seals than any other in the county based on the record of enrollment.

County sales amounted to more than $200 over 1925.

EVANGELIST ONEY OPENS CAMPAIGN

Evangelist Edward C. Oney, of Ashland, launched a series of evangelistic meetings last night in the Church of the Nazarene of which Rev. F. F. Freese is pastor.

Rev. Oney spoke at the morning and afternoon meetings which were largely attended. Services will be held every night this week beginning at 7:30.

REVIVAL MEETS CONTINUE HERE

Revival services will continue this week in the First Methodist Episcopal church in charge of the pastor, Rev. N. E. Dean, who is being assisted by Rev. John Gill of Blairsville, Pa.

Large number have professed conversion since the meetings opened several weeks ago.

Work is Progressing.

Work is progressing on the new Wells school building being erected on the site of the old Kenilworth country club in the lower section of the city. The building will be ready for occupancy next September.

Plant Workers To Dance.

Large number of employes of the Homer Laughlin China company plants here plan to attend the dance under the auspices of the Laughlin Social and Athletic club at Rock Springs park on Wednesday night

FARM BUREAU PLANS DRIVE

Membership Campaign Will be Launched on Feb. 14.

A membership campaign will be launched in this county by the Columbiana county farm bureau on Feb. 14, following a series of rallies that have been in progress in townships during the last few weeks.

Plans for canvass will be discussed during the sectional meetings of the Farmers' week observance at Columbus this week.

This meeting will be attended by County Agent Floyd Lower and Service Manager Phil E. Heim, both of Lisbon; Clark J. Halverstadt, of Leetonia, a member of the board of directors of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation; LeRoy Whinnery, of Salem, membership campaign manager; Dallas F. Hahn, of Knox township, and S. M. VanBlaricom, of Perry township.

Much interest has been created in the activity of the bureau during the township rallies. Representatives of the Ohio federation and extension service department of Ohio State university have addressed many of these meetings, and each speaker has pointed out the service the rural resident can obtain by being associated with the county bureau.

Several years ago a membership campaign was conducted by the county bureau and as a result several hundred new names were enrolled. The new campaign will be in charge of county bureau members, headed by Whinnery.

CHURCH HOLDS SPECIAL SERVICE

Special services were held at the Lisbon Methodist Episcopal church Sunday, marking the first anniversary of its re-dedication. In the evening an organ recital was given by Mrs. Harry R. Marsden, and this was followed by an hour's hymn service. During the interpretation of these hymns, Rev. Charles N. Church was assisted by G. A. Hempstead, chorister, and the vested choir.

FARM BUREAU PLANS DRIVE

Membership Campaign Will be Launched on Feb. 14.

A membership campaign will be launched in this county by the Columbiana county farm bureau on Feb. 14, following a series of rallies that have been in progress in townships during the last few weeks.

Plans for canvass will be discussed during the sectional meetings of the Farmers' week observance at Columbus this week.

This meeting will be attended by County Agent Floyd Lower and Service Manager Phil E. Heim, both of Lisbon; Clark J. Halverstadt, of Leetonia, a member of the board of directors of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation; LeRoy Whinnery, of Salem, membership campaign manager; Dallas F. Hahn, of Knox township, and S. M. VanBlaricom, of Perry township.

Much interest has been created in the activity of the bureau during the township rallies. Representatives of the Ohio federation and extension service department of Ohio State university have addressed many of these meetings, and each speaker has pointed out the service the rural resident can obtain by being associated with the county bureau.

Several years ago a membership campaign was conducted by the county bureau and as a result several hundred new names were enrolled. The new campaign will be in charge of county bureau members, headed by Whinnery.

FARM BUREAU PLANS DRIVE

Membership Campaign Will be Launched on Feb. 14.

A membership campaign will be launched in this county by the Columbiana county farm bureau on Feb. 14, following a series of rallies that have been in progress in townships during the last few weeks.

Plans for canvass will be discussed during the sectional meetings of the Farmers' week observance at Columbus this week.

This meeting will be attended by County Agent Floyd Lower and Service Manager Phil E. Heim, both of Lisbon; Clark J. Halverstadt, of Leetonia, a member of the board of directors of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation; LeRoy Whinnery, of Salem, membership campaign manager; Dallas F. Hahn, of Knox township, and S. M. VanBlaricom, of Perry township.

Much interest has been created in the activity of the bureau during the township rallies. Representatives of the Ohio federation and extension service department of Ohio State university have addressed many of these meetings, and each speaker has pointed out the service the rural resident can obtain by being associated with the county bureau.

Several years ago a membership campaign was conducted by the county bureau and as a result several hundred new names were enrolled. The new campaign will be in charge of county bureau members, headed by Whinnery.

Stomach Bloated With Gas Was His Worry

Mr. D. Zelinka, of New York, N. Y., writes: "I want you to know that no day passed for months and months that did not find my stomach bloated with gas and shooting pains darting through my stomach. I felt hungry at times, but as soon as I started eating, food nauseated me and I became bilious. My tongue was coated, had bad taste and breath was offensive. I never thought this could all be from my liver, but my liver it must have been, for the very first day after taking your wonderful Carter's Little Liver Pills I felt like a new person. The small dose makes them easy to take too." For sale at all druggists.

THE MAGNIFICENT NEW Royal Eight
BY CHANDLER

EVERY visitor to the Automobile Show last week was an eye-witness to the most whole-hearted reception an automobile ever received in Cleveland.

The new Royal Eight by Chandler was the heart and soul of the whole Show. Thousands and thousands of people pressed around the car—frankly admired it—sat in it—discussed it with an interest, an eagerness, a favorableness one hundred per cent spontaneous and sincere.

It was a case of beauty seizing attention—and luxury holding attention. People found within this magnificent car every elegance, every convenience, every nicety known to automobile craftsmanship. Bookings of orders far exceeded all previous show records!

Sharing honors with the new Royal Eight were the distinguished new 1927 Chandler Sixes. If you failed to attend the Automobile Show, you can see these cars now at the nearest Chandler showroom. Pick your model and take a drive!

THE MAGNIFICENT NEW Royal Eight BY CHANDLER

EVERY visitor to the Automobile Show last week was an eye-witness to the most whole-hearted reception an automobile ever received in Cleveland.

The new Royal Eight by Chandler was the heart and soul of the whole Show. Thousands and thousands of people pressed around the car—frankly admired it—sat in it—discussed it with an interest, an eagerness, a favorableness one hundred per cent spontaneous and sincere.

It was a case of beauty seizing attention—and luxury holding attention. People found within this magnificent car every elegance, every convenience, every nicety known to automobile craftsmanship. Bookings of orders far exceeded all previous show records!

Sharing honors with the new Royal Eight were the distinguished new 1927 Chandler Sixes. If you failed to attend the Automobile Show, you can see these cars now at the nearest Chandler showroom. Pick your model and take a drive!

Cartledge Passers Fall Before Local Scholastic Outfit

Coach Charles Q. "Punk" Cartledge, the diminutive director of Steubenville's state-wide famous football combination of recent years, who is as accustomed to gridiron victories as a leopard is to spots, peered out through his gold-rimmed glasses Saturday night on the tragedy being enacted before his eyes in the high school gym here as Lorah's youngsters mistreated his basketball hopefuls to the tune of 42 to 26 and probably wished it was September instead of January.

Cartledge had four members of his great 1926 football team that knocked off Cathedral Latin, Youngstown South and numerous others, out on the floor Saturday night but line plunges, end runs and sundry appurtenances of the wide open spaces were barred, and the majority of the visitors' "forward" passers were backward as far as intimacy with the hoops was concerned. "Buddy" Coles, great colored star with the Steubenville football team, who insisted upon breaking into the scoring column, harassed the banking boards for three full quarters and the greater part of the fouth before the meshes reached out mercifully and snagged the leather for a field goal.

The Blue and White victory was the second in consecutive nights and gave the locals a total of 114 points for the two days' work, Lisbon succumbing to the basketball wiles of Captain Jimmy Hamilton and his mates by a 72-8 count Friday.

The issue in Saturday night's engagement really was settled in the first half when the local passers ran up a count of 25 to 10, 11 points in the first period and 14 in the second. The visitors found the going rough after the first toot of the whistle, Forward Shelton finding the bucket for a field goal and a foul, representative of three points and the Steubenville score in the initial period.

But, despite the odds, the Stubbers stuck to their guns and were coming along in great style in the final period when they scored 10 points, although Larkins, McKeever and McConville were absent from the activities for part of the quarter.

Hamilton, McKeever and Larkins vied for scoring honors in the first half, with Hamilton taking the edge as a result of his accuracy from the foul line. Each of the three dropped in three field goals, Hamilton counting also on two foul line attempts.

Hamilton, after scoring a field goal in the third period, was taken out with the contest fairly well sewed up, being replaced by Bloor, who subsequently gave way to Ankrim.

The scoring burden was dropped on McKeever's shoulders and the chunky forward went on to set the pace. Dropping in three in the final half, he accumulated a grand total of six field goals and a foul for 13 points.

Larkins and McConville got in the way of too many Steubenville passes to permit the visitors' offensive movements any marked degree of success. And another important factor in the Blue victory was the competence of Center English in getting the tip-off. He outjumped Feist in nine out of 10 chances and naturally the advantage gave Lorah's five a big edge on the get-away.

Hamilton got back into the game in the last period with the score standing something like 30 to 20 in favor of the locals and dropped in a nice basket from long range by way of emphasizing his performance for the evening.

COLUMBIANA FIVE BEATEN AT WELLSVILLE

Boys Drop 30-16 Game But Visiting Girls Win, 23-9.

COACH EARL KLINCK'S Wellsville five almost doubled the score on Columbiana Saturday night on the Wellsville court, finishing ahead of the north countians by a count of 30 to 16 in a fast encounter.

The Orange and Black passers got off to the lead and held to the pole track all the way round with Calhoun, Provost and Dickey leading the attack.

Calhoun chalked up three and contributed a quartet of additional points on foul line tosses.

Miller was the big noise for the visitors, sinking four baskets and a foul during the engagement.

The Wellsville girls were defeated by the visiting sextet in the preliminary by a score of 23 to 9.

Faculty Manager Trumbull, of Wellsville, today announced plans were under way for the distribution of ducats for the East Liverpool-Wellsville game February 15, at Wellsville. Practically all the tickets will be sold before the game, with Trumbull in charge of the distribution in Wellsville and Faculty Manager Decker here.

THREE CUSHION RIVALS BATTLE

CHICAGO, Jan. 31. — Ten of the best three-cushion billiard players in the country will line the barrier at the auditorium late today for the start of the three-weeks' tournament for the national three-cushion championship.

Tiff Denton, of Kansas City, and Arthur Thurnblad, of Chicago, will open the tourney with the first afternoon match. Following them come Allen Hall, of St. Louis, and Riamundo Campanioni, Havana, Cuba. Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia, and Charles McCourt, Cleveland, will clash in the first night session, after whom August Kieckhefer and Leonard Kenney, both of Chicago, will conclude the first day's play.

The other two contestants, Gus Copulos, of Detroit and Earl Lookabaugh, Lindenwood, Ill., will not get into action until tomorrow.

Otto Reiselt is the defending champion. Allen Hall is said to be the most threatening of the younger generation. He and the always colorful Campanioni are expected to furnish some sensational billiards.

In addition to the championship emblem, the winner receives $1,200 in cash, 24 per cent of the gate receipts and a salary of $250 a month from a billiard supply company as long as he keeps the title.

WILDE'S SQUAD DOWNS LIBERTY FRESHIES, 26-19

Outclass Normal Five in Clash at Rock Springs.

SATURDAY night was a big night for Chester high school basketballers, the Hancock countians winning both ends of a double header, Ray Wilde's boys trimming the West Liberty Normal Freshmen by a count of 26 to 19, and the girls copping a 35 to 17 decision over the sextet representing the Methodist Episcopal church of East Liverpool.

The main attraction was fast, and rough in spots, although the team of young giants that the Normal school sent against the Chester squad were no match in skill for the Chesterites.

Wilde's kids showed the best form of the season, cutting for the baskets in almost faultless style. They employed short passes to great advantage, making most of their points from close range.

The Frosh were unable to fathom Chester's five man defense and, consequently, did most of their shooting from mid-court.

Liberty took the lead in the first period, Stryker and Campbell sinking baskets on long shots. Hoskinson scored Chester's first point from foul line. Hinds and Simcox counted for Chester in the same manner and Simcox put the Chester five in the lead with a field goal on a pretty side shot. Hoskinson dropped in another double decker and the home squad began to play rings around the visitors. Simcox's field goal gave Wilde's team a 9 to 4 lead at the end of the first period.

McBride started the scoring in the second quarter with a pretty shot from center. Frew put in another Frosh basket with the same kind of a shot. McBride put the West Liberty lads on even terms with a foul line toss. Simcox broke the deadlock with a single pointer. Miller scored another Chester tally on a free throw. Campbell made a foul line chance good for the Frosh. Bartley got a double marker for Chester under the basket. Simcox sank a foul line point, and his next toss was good for two points making the score 16 to 10, Chester, at half time.

McBride was the first to score in the second half, counting twice on foul line chances. Bartley came to the front for Chester, sinking in two field goals, making the game about safe for the Chesterites. Hoskinson and Simcox tossed in two more double deckers giving Chester a lead that was too big to overcome. Hertic tossed in a two-pointer for the Frosh. Bartley came through with another field basket. McBride counted for West Liberty with a pretty side shot. McBride made another Frosh point from the foul line. Simcox heaved in Chester's last field goal and Campbell sank in the last points of the game on a pretty shot from center.

All the winners played A-1 basketball, Simcox and Bartley doing the best all around playing.

For West Liberty, Campbell, Stryker, and McBride were the best performers.

Skinner, Spangler and Neal were the stars for the Chester sextet, Miss Skinner finding the baskets for fourteen double pointers. Cochran, Goodballet and Gibbons played well for the East Liverpool girls.

"Pro" Basketball Is Enjoying Biggest Season

Basketball seems to be the one new professional sport, as organized on a national basis, that has a chance to live. The cage game not only will continue but already is on a paying basis. The pro game thrived for years in the east but is a new venture in the middle west and this is but the second season of the first well organized league of anything approaching national scope. Above are some of the stars of the American Professional basketball league, who are making it popular. Saunders and Kennedy are with the Washington club, Russell and Hickey with Cleveland, Holman (called the greatest) with the Celtics and Passon with Philadelphia.

Michigan Quint Heading Toward Big Ten Honors

Five Victories, no Defeats Give Them Undisputed Lead.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Still unbeaten, and with the hardest part of their schedule behind them, the University of Michigan basketball five this week enters the last half of the season, apparently coasting clear to another Big Ten championship.

With five games won and none lost the Wolverines today have an undisputed hold on first place. Indiana, beaten only by Michigan, shares second place with Wisconsin. Each team has won four games and lost one. The Hoosiers kept hot on the championship trail by beating Chicago Saturday night, 28 to 23.

Purdue is in third place with three victories and one defeat. Ohio State, by virtue of a 33 to 31 victory over Minnesota Saturday night, managed to hold its own with Illinois. Ohio and Illinois are tied, each having won three games and lost two.

Iowa, Chicago, Northwestern and Minnesota bring up the rear in the order named. The latter two have not won a single conference game this season.

Michigan still faces a two-game series with Chicago and Purdue, and a return engagement with Illinois. Chicago is not calculated to furnish much opposition, but Purdue and Illinois are always tough teams to beat. Both have improved with the advance of the season.

The past week say a lull in hostilities owing to mid-term examinations, but from now on a bitter fight to the finish is expected. The games scheduled for this Saturday are: Indiana at Chicago, Minnesota at Illinois and Ohio State at Iowa.

HIGH SCORERS IN BIG TEN RACE

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Bill Hunt, Ohio State guard, was setting the pace today in the Big Ten race for individual scoring honors. Otterness of Minnesota was second, and Daugherty, Illinois, and Cummins, Purdue, were tied for third.

High scores ranking, by total points, follow:

Hunt, Ohio	53
Otterness, Minnesota	51
Daugherty, Illinois	47
Cummins, Purdue	47
Bahr, Wisconsin	40
Kruger, Indiana	38
Oosterbaan, Michigan	37
Wheeler, Purdue	35

PLAY-OFF PLAN DECIDED UPON AT LOOP MEET

First Game at Damascus Tuesday; Battle Here Thursday.

EAST LIVERPOOL ELKS and Damascus Quakers, who wound up the first half season of the Columbiana County Amateur Basketball league in a dead heat for top honors will battle in a three-game series for the title, with the inaugural clash carded tomorrow night at Damascus.

This was the decision reached yesterday afternoon at a meeting of league officers and representatives of the six circuit clubs in the Hostetter hostel, Lisbon.

Although the forfeit game phase connected with the wind-up in which the Elks claimed the right to take their first game of the season with East Palestine, was submitted by Manager Adam and Coach Powell, the league after a lengthy consideration, decided that for the best interests of every one concerned, the title series would be advisable.

Realizing that although they could have pressed their claims for the game, on the ground that Damascus received two forfeit games from Wellsville, but conceding that too stiff an argument might lead to a break, the Elks, in the interests of good sportsmanship, left the matter up to the other league managers entirely and the latter, after all phases were discussed, decided the best way out of the situation would be a series of games.

The opener, consequently, is billed on the Damascus floor. The second game will be played Thursday night at the high school court here and the third, if necessary, will be staged on the Salem floor on the following Monday night.

Salem and Salineville will contribute the referees, with Scullion and Young engaged for the jobs. Scullion will work at Damascus and Young at East Liverpool and both at Salem, if a third contest is needed.

Harmony prevailed during the session.

As a result of the first half title series, the league was forced to set the second half schedule back a week, and revised the schedule throughout in order to meet the new contingency.

Three clubs sought membership in the circuit, representatives of Sebring, Canton and Midland being present.

GREENE BOOSTS PIN AVERAGE

As a result of his efforts in the first three games of the second half, Johnny Greene of the Bankers has boosted his average to 156 pins, which is not bad bowling for 33 games.

The Bankers will go into action tomorrow night against Turk Nash. Smith News and Roselawns are billed for tonight, with the Chryslers and Altmans winding up the week's play on Friday.

YOUNGSTOWN GO IS POSTPONED

YOUNGSTOWN, Jan. 31.—The Billy Wallace-Ray Mitchell bout, scheduled for tonight at Youngstown, has been postponed, Matchmaker Al Zill announced today. Wallace is sick and will be unable to appear. No date has been set for the bout.

COLUMBIANA FIVE BEATEN AT WELLSVILLE

Boys Drop 30-16 Game But Visiting Girls Win, 23-9.

Coach Earl Klinck's Wellsville five almost doubled the score on Columbiana Saturday night on the Wellsville court, finishing ahead of the north countians by a count of 30 to 16 in a fast encounter.

The Orange and Black passers got off to the lead and held to the pole track all the way round with Calhoun, Provost and Dickey leading the attack.

Calhoun chalked up three and contributed a quartet of additional points on foul line tosses.

Miller was the big noise for the visitors, sinking four baskets and a foul during the engagement.

The Wellsville girls were defeated by the visiting sextet in the preliminary by a score of 23 to 9.

Faculty Manager Trumbull, of Wellsville, today announced plans were under way for the distribution of ducats for the East Liverpool-Wellsville game February 15, at Wellsville. Practically all the tickets will be sold before the game, with Trumbull in charge of the distribution in Wellsville and Faculty Manager Decker here.

THREE CUSHION RIVALS BATTLE

CHICAGO, Jan. 31. — Ten of the best three-cushion billiard players in the country will line the barrier at the auditorium late today for the start of the three-weeks' tournament for the national three-cushion championship.

Tiff Denton, of Kansas City, and Arthur Thurnblad, of Chicago, will open the tourney with the first afternoon match. Following them come Allen Hall, of St. Louis, and Riamundo Campanioni, Havana, Cuba. Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia, and Charles McCourt, Cleveland, will clash in the first night session, after whom August Kieckhefer and Leonard Kenney, both of Chicago, will conclude the first day's play.

The other two contestants, Gus Copulos, of Detroit and Earl Lookabaugh, Lindenwood, Ill., will not get into action until tomorrow.

Otto Reiselt is the defending champion. Allen Hall is said to be the most threatening of the younger generation. He and the always colorful Campanioni are expected to furnish some sensational billiards.

In addition to the championship emblem, the winner receives $1,260 in cash, 24 per cent of the gate receipts and a salary of $250 a month from a billiard supply company as long as he keeps the title.

WILDE'S SQUAD DOWNS LIBERTY FRESHIES, 26-19

Outclass Normal Five in Clash at Rock Springs.

SATURDAY night was a big night for Chester high school basketballers, the Hancock countians winning both ends of a double header, Ray Wilde's boys trimming the West Liberty Normal Freshmen by a count of 26 to 19, and the girls copping a 35 to 17 decision over the sextet representing the Methodist Episcopal church of East Liverpool.

The main attraction was fast, and rough in spots, although the team of young giants that the Normal school sent against the Chester squad were no match in skill for the Chesterites.

Wilde's kids showed the best form of the season, cutting for the baskets in almost faultless style. They employed short passes to great advantage, making most of their points from close range.

The Frosh were unable to fathom Chester's five man defense and, consequently, did most of their shooting from mid-court.

Liberty took the lead in the first period, Stryker and Campbell sinking baskets on long shots. Hoskinson scored Chester's first point from foul line. Hinds and Simcox counted for Chester in the same manner and Simcox put the Chester five in the lead with a field goal on a pretty side shot. Hoskinson dropped in another double decker and the home squad began to play rings around the visitors. Simcox's field goal gave Wilde's team a 9 to 4 lead at the end of the first period.

McBride started the scoring in the second quarter with a pretty shot from center. Frew put in another Frosh basket with the same kind of a shot. McBride put the West Liberty lads on even terms with a foul line toss. Simcox broke the deadlock with a single pointer. Miller scored another Chester tally on a free throw. Campbell made a foul line chance good for the Frosh. Bartley got a double marker for Chester under the basket. Simcox sank a foul line point, and his next try was good for two points making the score 16 to 10, Chester, at half time.

McBride was the first to score in the second half, counting twice on foul line chances. Bartley came to the front for Chester, sinking in two field goals, making the game about safe for the Chesterites. Hoskinson and Simcox tossed in two more double deckers giving Chester a lead that was too big to overcome. Hertic tossed in a two-pointer for the Fosh. Bartley came through with another field basket. McBride counted for West Liberty with a pretty side shot. McBride made another Frosh point from the foul line. Simcox heaved in Chester's last field goal and Campbell sank in the last points of the game on a pretty shot from center.

All the winners played A-1 basket ball, Simcox and Bartley doing the best all around playing.

For West Liberty, Campbell, Stryker, and McBride were the best performers.

Skinner, Spangler and Neal were the stars for the Chester sextet, Miss Skinner finding the baskets for fourteen double pointers. Cochran, Goodballet and Gibbons played well for the East Liverpool girls.

"Pro" Basketball Is Enjoying Biggest Season

Basketball seems to be the one new professional sport, as organized on a national basis, that has a chance to live. The cage game not only will continue but already is on a paying basis. The pro game thrived for years in the east but is a new venture in the middle west and this is but the second season of the first well organized league of anything approaching national scope. Above are some of the stars of the American Professional basketball league, who are making it popular. Saunders and Kennedy are with the Washington club, Russell and Hickey with Cleveland, Holman (called the greatest) with the Celtics and Passon with Philadelphia.

Michigan Quint Heading Toward Big Ten Honors

Five Victories, no Defeats Give Them Undisputed Lead.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Still unbeaten, and with the hardest part of their schedule behind them, the University of Michigan basketball five this week enters the last half of the season, apparently coasting clear to another Big Ten championship.

With five games won and none lost the Wolverines today have an undisputed hold on first place. Indiana, beaten only by Michigan, shares second place with Wisconsin. Each team has won four games and lost one. The Hoosiers kept hot on the championship trail by beating Chicago Saturday night, 28 to 23.

Purdue is in third place with three victories and one defeat. Ohio State, by virtue of a 33 to 31 victory over Minnesota Saturday night, managed to hold its own with Illinois. Ohio and Illinois are tied, each having won three games and lost two.

Iowa, Chicago, Northwestern and Minnesota bring up the rear in the order named. The latter two have not won a single conference game this season.

Michigan still faces a two-game series with Chicago and Purdue, and a return engagement with Illinois. Chicago is not calculated to furnish much opposition, but Purdue and Illinois are always tough teams to beat. Both have improved with the advance of the season.

The past week say a lull in hostilities owing to mid-term examinations, but from now on a bitter fight to the finish is expected. The games scheduled for this Saturday are: Indiana at Chicago, Minnesota at Illinois and Ohio State at Iowa.

HIGH SCORERS IN BIG TEN RACE

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Bill Hunt, Ohio State guard, was setting the pace today in the Big Ten race for individual scoring honors. Otterness of Minnesota was second, and Daugherty, Illinois, and Cummins, Purdue, were tied for third.

High scores ranking, by total points, follow:

Hunt, Ohio	53
Otterness, Minnesota	51
Daugherty, Illinois	47
Cummins, Purdue	47
Bahr, Wisconsin	40
Kruger, Indiana	38
Oosterbaan, Michigan	37
Wheeler, Purdue	35

PLAY-OFF PLAN DECIDED UPON AT LOOP MEET

First Game at Damascus Tuesday; Battle Here Thursday.

EAST LIVERPOOL ELKS and Damascus Quakers, who wound up the first half season of the Columbiana County Amateur Basketball league in a dead heat for top honors will battle in a three-game series for the title, with the inaugural clash carded tomorrow night at Damascus.

This was the decision reached yesterday afternoon at a meeting of league officers and representatives of the six circuit clubs in the Hostetter hostel, Lisbon.

Although the forfeit game phase connected with the wind-up in which the Elks claimed the right to take their first game of the season with East Palestine, was submitted by Manager Adam and Coach Powell, the league after a lengthy consideration, decided that for the best interests of every one concerned, the title series would be advisable.

Realizing that although they could have pressed their claims for the game, on the ground that Damascus received two forfeit games from Wellsville, but conceding that too stiff an argument might lead to a break, the Elks, in the interests of good sportsmanship, left the matter up to the other league managers entirely and the latter, after all phases were discussed, decided the best way out of the situation would be a series of games.

The opener, consequently, is billed on the Damascus floor. The second game will be played Thursday night at the high school court here and the third, if necessary, will be staged on the Salem floor on the following Monday night.

Salem and Salineville will contribute the referees, with Scullion and Young engaged for the jobs. Scullion will work at Damascus and Young at East Liverpool and both at Salem, if a third contest is needed.

Harmony prevailed during the session.

As a result of the first half title series, the league was forced to set the second half schedule back a week, and revised the schedule throughout in order to meet the new contingency.

Three clubs sought membership in the circuit, representatives of Sebring, Canton and Midland being present.

GREENE BOOSTS PIN AVERAGE

As a result of his efforts in the first three games of the second half, Johnny Greene of the Bankers has boosted his average to 156 pins, which is not bad bowling for 33 games.

The Bankers will go into action tomorrow night against Turk Nash. Smith News and Roselawns are billed for tonight, with the Chryslers and Altmans winding up the week's play on Friday.

YOUNGSTOWN GO IS POSTPONED

YOUNGSTOWN, Jan. 31.—The Billy Wallace-Ray Mitchell bout, scheduled for tonight at Youngstown, has been postponed, Matchmaker Al Zill announced today. Wallace is sick and will be unable to appear. No date has been set for the bout.

BEING 'RUINED MEANS $50,000

That's What Next Season Will Probably Bring Speaker.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—In talking trifles today with Miller Huggins, the though may occur to Tris Speaker that the average wrestler in Japan weight 400 pounds and has the paunch of an ex-brewer in order to prevent anyone getting a firm hold on him and to avoid injury when he falls. This will remind Speaker of himself. He is so different.

He fully expects the Yanks, Athletics or Senators to get a firm and semi-permanent hold on him and should he fall for Mr. Huggins' suave, oily ways, the chances are he won't be injured in the slightest. In fact, the yong man figures to do himself plenty of good. He and Ty Cobb are two of three men on record who have profited by a punch on the nose. The other is Jack Dempsey.

The only thing Dutch Leonard accomplished by his scandal charges against the pair of stars was to talk each into at least $50,000 for the following season. An odds on bet is that the New York Yankees, being extremely nervous with a fountain pen, will have either Speaker or Cobb in their outfield for the 1927 campaign.

Having hastened on from Florida, it may be suspected that Mr. Huggins came not here to praise Speaker but to purchase him. They may not come to a definite understanding at once but the careless manner in which Mr. Huggins handles the decimal system is bound to make a lasting impression, like a signet ring on a Harvard nose.

Some of the boys in the back room are saying today that our man Huggins will close the deal before nightfall. They simply have to build Rome on an eight-hour shift or they feel the thing won't look good. The chances are that Speaker, being notoriously smarter than a dumbwaiter, will make haste with great tardiness. Only a sap would fail to capitalize the present situation.

It is generally understood that he has one offer from Connie Mack under consideration. Another from Griffith is supposed to be waiting him in Washington. If either the Yanks or Athletics make the purchase, they will be buying more than Tris Speaker, one of the great hitters of all baseball. They will be buying the 1927 American league pennant, barring the unforseen. To the Senators, it might mean the difference between a contender and an also ran.

Speaker therefore can't go wrong and neither can the bidder who finally makes the buy. If money proves to be the only influence in Speaker's choice, the Yanks should get him.

But if they miss, they are prepared to bid as high for Cobb. In fact, the loss of Speaker to Philadelphia would mean that the Yanks would have to get Cobb in self-defense, even if the deal meant a cash outlay greater than that required to sign Ruth. The local club has been shouting for another left hand hitter; it now has two of them to shoot at.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

The shot that the golfer needs the most, and the most often, is the approach to the green that will cause the ball to stay on the green after it hits. This shot is particularly valuable when the greens are a bit dry, but whether springy or dry, I dare say that the approach through the air that strikes the green and either rolls over or rolls far from the pin is the shot in golf that most often causes extra strokes. The player cannot avoid these strokes added by depending on run-ups all the time, because the long run-up approach is difficult to control, since it never can be foreseen what the ball will strike against when it strikes in the long grass ahead of the green. The pitch that stops obviously is a much needed shot, and I will discuss its essentials in the articles to follow.

TWO MATCHES AT AMERICAN

Two games are billed tonight in the American pocket billiard tournament —Herbert vs McDowell and Bennett vs Morris.

Records of victories and defeats thus far follows:

Morris, win four and lost one; Johnson, four and three; McDowell, two and five; Herbert, three and two; Hanna, two and four; Daher, two and two; Price, five and one; Moore, two and five; Bennett, two and four; Lanning, four and four; Watson, two and four; Osborne, two and four; Reney, three and one; Sainer, six and one.

Haskin's Letter

band and at 12 o'clock noon the national salute of 21 guns is fired. The flag is then hoisted to the top of the staff.

The president or an ex-president is given the national salute of 21 guns upon his arrival at and departure from a military camp. The question of just why 21 guns was selected as the national salute has long been one upon which the general public has pondered and it is a favorite one with those newspaper readers availing themselves of the various information services. The tracing of the origin of this number is not so simple as it might sound, but the following explanation has been given:

Seven Times Three.

Originally warships fired a salute of seven guns, the number seven being selected because of its mystical significance from antiquity. Although the salute at sea was seven guns, shore batteries were allowed to fire three guns to the ship's one. The reason for this was that sodium nitrate was largely used in the manufacture of powder. This was easily spoiled at sea, but could be very readily kept on land. The multiplier three was selected probably because of its symbolism.

With the development of the manufacture of powder, the number of guns for the international naval salute was made to correspond with that of the land forces. On August 18, 1875, a resolution adopted by the United States provided that salutes be returned gun for gun. At this time the British salute was already 21 guns, therefore, this number was accepted by the United States.

The origin of the military salute has also been something of a mystery to the average person, and several ideas have been advanced. It was supposed to have been the practice in Rome at the time of Julius Caesar for inferiors to raise the palm of the hand to the front of their caps in order to show that it contained no dagger. This was because of the fact that assassinations were common in those days. It has been suggested that time and custom have modified this to the military salute.

Another idea suggested is that in the British army during the American Revolution it was customary for inferiors to uncover before superiors and equals in acknowledgement of their presence. On account of the clumsy headgear this custom degenerated into saluting without removing the cap.

The firing of salutes is a very important part of military ceremonies and much space is given in the regulations to all the details for each occasion. The exact number of guns to be fired in honor of each important visitor is set forth and the correct time for firing is given. It is also decreed that "personal salutes at the same place and in compliment to the same person, whether civil, diplomatic, military, or naval, are never to be fired oftener than once a year, unless such person will have been in the meantime advanced in rank."

The new regulations also include the flat statement that since the army is the senior service, precedence should be accorded it over the navy in all ceremonials on shore in which the forces of both of these branches of the service are participating. And this without regard to the military rank of the commanding officers of the detachment. There can, therefore, be no possible question as to an admiral's position in a parade when the army detachment is led by a mere captain or major. Even with all his rank he does not rate leading the procession!

BEING 'RUINED MEANS $50,000

That's What Next Season Will Probably Bring Speaker.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—In talking trifles today with Miller Huggins, the though may occur to Tris Speaker that the average wrestler in Japan weight 400 pounds and has the paunch of an ex-brewer in order to prevent anyone getting a firm hold on him and to avoid injury when he falls. This will remind Speaker of himself. He is so different.

He fully expects the Yanks, Athletics or Senators to get a firm and semi-permanent hold on him and should he fall for Mr. Huggins' suave, oily ways, the chances are he won't be injured in the slightest. In fact, the yong man figures to do himself plenty of good. He and Ty Cobb are two of three men on record who have profited by a punch on the nose. The other is Jack Dempsey.

The only thing Dutch Leonard accomplished by his scandal charges against the pair of stars was to talk each into at least $50,000 for the following season. An odds on bet is that the New York Yankees, being extremely nervous with a fountain pen will have either Speaker or Cobb in their outfield for the 1927 campaign.

Having hastened on from Florida, it may be suspected that Mr. Huggins came not here to praise Speaker but to purchase him. They may not come to a definite understanding at once but the careless manner in which Mr. Huggins handles the decimal system is bound to make a lasting impression, like a signet ring on a Harvard nose.

Some of the boys in the back room are saying today that our man Huggins will close the deal before nightfall. They simply have to build Rome on an eight-hour shift or they feel the thing won't look good. The chances are that Speaker, being notoriously smarter than a dumbwaiter, will make haste with great tardiness. Only a sap would fail to capitalize the present situation.

It is generally understood that he has one offer from Connie Mack under consideration. Another from Griffith is supposed to be waiting him in Washington. If either the Yanks or Athletics make the purchase, they will be buying more than Tris Speaker, one of the great hitters of all baseball. They will be buying the 1927 American league pennant, barring the unforseen. To the Senators, it might mean the difference between a contender and an also ran.

Speaker therefore can't go wrong and neither can the bidder who finally makes the buy. If money proves to be the only influence in Speaker's choice, the Yanks should get him.

But if they miss, they are prepared to bid as high for Cobb. In fact, the loss of Speaker to Philadelphia would mean that the Yanks would have to get Cobb in self-defense, even if the deal meant a cash outlay greater than that required to sign Ruth. The local club has been shouting for another left hand hitter; it now has two of them to shoot at.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

The shot that the golfer needs the most, and the most often, is the approach to the green that will cause the ball to stay on the green after it hits. This shot is particularly valuable when the greens are a bit dry, but whether springy or dry, I dare say that the approach through the air that strikes the green and either rolls over or rolls far from the pin is the shot in golf that most often causes extra strokes. The player cannot avoid these strokes added by depending on run-ups all the time, because the long run-up approach is difficult to control, since it never can be foreseen what the ball will strike against when it strikes in the long grass ahead of the green. The pitch that stops obviously is a much needed shot, and I will discuss its essentials in the articles to follow.

Haskin's Letter

band and at 12 o'clock noon the national salute of 21 guns is fired. The flag is then hoisted to the top of the staff.

The president or an ex-president is given the national salute of 21 guns upon his arrival at and departure from a military camp. The question of just why 21 guns was selected as the national salute has long been one upon which the general public has pondered and it is a favorite one with those newspaper readers availing themselves of the various information services. The tracing of the origin of this number is not so simple as it might sound, but the following explanation has been given:

Seven Times Three.

Originally warships fired a salute of seven guns, the number seven being selected because of its mystical significance from antiquity. Although the salute at sea was seven guns, shore batteries were allowed to fire three guns to the ship's one. The reason for this was that sodium nitrate was largely used in the manufacture of powder. This was easily spoiled at sea, but could be very readily kept on land. The multiplier three was selected probably because of its symbolism.

With the development of the manufacture of powder, the number of guns for the international naval salute was made to correspond with that of the land forces. On August 18, 1875, a resolution adopted by the United States provided that salutes be returned gun for gun. At this time the British salute was already 21 guns, therefore, this number was accepted by the United States.

The origin of the military salute has also been something of a mystery to the average person, and several ideas have been advanced. It was supposed to have been the practice in Rome at the time of Julius Caesar for inferiors to raise the palm of the hand to the front of their caps in order to show that it contained no dagger. This was because of the fact that assassinations were common in those days. It has been suggested that time and custom have modified this to the military salute.

Another idea suggested is that in the British army during the American Revolution it was customary for inferiors to uncover before superiors and equals in acknowledgement of their presence. On account of the clumsy headgear this custom degenerated into saluting without removing the cap.

The firing of salutes is a very important part of military ceremonies and much space is given in the regulations to all the details for each occasion. The exact number of guns to be fired in honor of each important visitor is set forth and the correct time for firing is given. It is also decreed that "personal salutes at the same place and in compliment to the same person, whether civil, diplomatic, military, or naval, are never to be fired oftener than once a year, unless such person will have been in the meantime advanced in rank."

The new regulations also include the flat statement that since the army is the senior service, precedence should be accorded it over the navy in all ceremonials on shore in which the forces of both of these branches of the service are participating. And this without regard to the military rank of the commanding officers of the detachment. There can, therefore, be no possible question as to an admiral's position in a parade when the army detachment is led by a mere captain or major. Even with all his rank he does not rate leading the procession!

CHURCH MEET IS SCHEDULED

Annual General Council Conference Listed for Fairmont.

The annual general council conference of the Presbyterian church of West Virginia, will be held in Fairmont on February 3. The meeting will be held in conjunction with the semi-annual meeting of the Synod's council of the Presbyterian church of West Virginia.

At the meeting the budget for the entire Presbyterian council of West Virginia will be apportioned. At the National Presbyterian councils meeting during the first week of December a budget of $88,118 was alloted to the Presbyterian church in West Virginia. This amount will be proportioned to the three presbyteries of West Virginia at the meeting. The national budget was cut from $13,000,000 in 1926 to $12,000,000 for 1927.

Those leaving this city will leave at 7:15 a. m. on the morning of February 3. The meeting will close on that evening.

One of the big features will be the banquet to be served at noon at the Hotel Fairmont. All those present at the banquet will be the guests of Rev. A. B. McCormick, D. D., secretary of the eastern district of the general council of the Presbyterian church of the United States.

Among the prominent speakers at the banquet will be Dr. McCormick, Rev. Ernest F. Hall, D. D., secretary of the board of National Missions; Rev. H. McAfee Robinson, D. D., secretary of the board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian church, of the United States.

Other members of the program and field committee of which Dr. Keesor is chairman are: Rev. G. E. Beevans, of Fairmont, and John H. Thornton, of Sistersville, W. Va.

Dr. Keesor has announced that the only cost entailed to the attending of the sessions will be train fare to and from Fairmont.

SYBIL BAUER, SWIMMER, DIES

Noted Star Succumbs After Operation in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31. — Miss Sybil Bauer, famous woman swimmer, died early today at Michael Reese hospital following a long illness. Miss Bauer had been confined to the hospital for several months from complications that developed after an operation for intestinal disorder.

At the bedside when death came were Miss Bauer's parents, a brother and her fiance, Edward Sullivan, New York newspaper man.

The death of the noted star came as a distinct surprise as it was announced only a few days ago that she was recovering rapidly.

Miss Bauer was holder of many national and international swimming records. She was noted especially for her back stroke records. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bauer of Chicago. Until the break in her health Miss Bauer was a student at Northwestern university.

"Too Tired" to Enjoy Yourself?

Let This Stimulative Tonic Build Up Your Energy.

Help you digestive apparatus do its full duty. Give your blood the enrichment that brings vigor. Smooth out the "kinks" in your nerves. Get yourself normal, and you won't always be complaining of a "tired feeling."

Your body needs the right kind of digestive stimulation to keep it functioning with 100 per cent efficiency. That "all-in" feeling is unnecessary.

A remarkable stimulant-tonic has been devised for just such conditions as these. It is delightful palatable and is prepared by an old Virginia concern in business for nearly a century. Druggists and physicians have come to know this stimulant as "Old Monticello Tonic." Get a bottle today from your druggist, take a small wineglass full before the next meal—see how much better you eat—feel the glow of stimulated functions throughout the body. A few days' treatment will bring a quick change in run-down conditions and overcome lack of energy.

PEKIN DEMANDS RECALL OF BRITISH TROOPS

Today

Gladstone's Bones.

The Leisured Woman.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.]

THE 1928 convention and nomination, so far as the Democrats are concerned, is starting already. Mr. McAdoo, from out of the West, tells Eastern lawyers that the effort of individual states to set aside prohibition laws means embarking on the slippery slide of anarchy.

MR. McADOO even says that the effort to modify the Volstead law is "a concerted advance upon the national government by the forces which since the days of Tweed and Croker have been mainly responsible for selling protection against the law to crime and criminals." It looks like a fight.

"Them is harsh words," as the fishwife said when the philosopher called her "an isosceles parallelopipedon."

CYRUS H. K. CURTIS' paper says Messrs. Baruch and Chadbourne, who were the big fighting men in the McAdoo camp of 1924, have moved over to the Governor Smith camp, and are for him now. Baruch and Chadbourne know a good deal about political management, and are entitled to front seats on the Governor Smith wagon.

A SUIT is brought against Lord Gladstone, son of the great home ruler, by the author of a blackguard book attacking Gladstone's memory. That British law should allow the name of Gladstone, dead twenty-nine years, to be dragged in the mud, is amazing. As to Gladstone's morals, this writer can testify that he went home from the house of commons at three in the morning or later, night after night, his old wife waiting for him at the door under the clock tower to wrap a big muffler about his neck and take him home. That was when he made his fight for Home Rule on the opposition bench.

THAT suit digging into Gladstone's grave brings out the statement that for love of a pretty Russian spy, sent to England to get hold of him and in-

Catalina Channel Victory May Win $100,000 For Young

CHICAGO, Jan. 31. — William Wrigley, Jr., fresh from Catalina, declared today that George Young, the youthful Toronto swimmer who conquered the choppy Catalina channel, should amass a fortune of "at least $100,000," as a result of his achievement.

Young's first money was the $25,000 offered by Mr. Wrigley for the first man to conquer the channel. Wrigley said it cost $100,000 to stage the marathon.

"Young is getting $1,000 a day for public appearance," said the chewing gum magnate. "But swimming isn't the only thing that boy knows how to do. He knows how to hold onto money. He's putting it in trust for his mother."

BLAZE FOLLOWS BREAK IN GAS MAIN IN RIVER

MATCH APPLIED

Valve Shut Off Pending Arrival of Diver.

Gas escaping from an eight-inch main, broken in the Ohio river near the city limits just west of Jethro, at noon Saturday, was ignited late Sunday afternoon and burned brightly for several hours before it was extinguished.

The flames mounted high into the air from the surface of the water and drew the attention of hundreds of sightseers, who were attracted by the bright glare in the sky. Officials of the Manufacturers Light and Heat company closed the valves at both ends of the broken pipe, extinguishing the blaze.

The pipe follows the river bank from Steubenville to East Liverpool. Ordinarily the line is out of the river but during the last few weeks has been under several feet of water. The break is believed to have occurred when the current of the river washed away the earth underneath the line, allowing the sleeve joint to break.

Gas company officials shut off the gas shortly after the break occurred, but the valve is believed to have failed to close securely and Sunday afternoon the gas was ignited either by sparks from a passing engine or by a passerby who tossed a lighted match into the water where the gas was bubbling to the surface.

ers no inconvenience as East Liver-

The break caused district consumpool is also supplied by five eight-inch mains which cross the river from West Virginia near the foot of Broadway and in the East End.

T. H. Stephens, manager for the Manufacturers Light and Heat company, said today that the broken main would be repaired as soon as the river receded to permit a diver to work. A diver will be brought here from Pittsburgh to repair the break in the main.

English Soldiers Forced to Evacuate Quarters in Race Course of International Settlement.

LONDON AWAITS EVENTS IN CHINA

PEKIN, Jan. 31.—The Chinese government at Pekin has demanded that Great Britain immediately recall the thousands of troops that she has embarked for China.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 31.—The consular body has refused to allow foreign troops to occupy the international settlement in Shanghai, and two battalions of recently arrived British troops have been forced to evacuate from their quarters in the Shanghai race course.

British Proposals Secret.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The British government today decided to withhold publication of its proposals to China, "awaiting the course of events in China."

It is understood that the failure to receive advices from Peking and Hankow as to how the Chinese have received the proposals is responsible for the holding up of the publication of the terms.

The foreign office today, however, suggested that emphasis should be laid on the fact that the suggestions for Anglo-Chinese administration of the concessions does not mean that Great Britain has any intention of surrendering all control or evacuating her concessions. The proposals do not apply to Shanghai, because it is an international settlement.

Anti-British Campaign Violent.

A dispatch from Peking said Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian war lord and virtual dictator at Peking, was so dissatisfied with the British proposals that he issued orders on Friday to stop all troop movements southward and to prepare for the return to Mukden, capital of Manchuria. This would have left North China practically open to the advance of the Cantonese forces.

However, after a long discussion

ONE MAN SLAIN, POLICEMAN AND WOMAN INJURED IN GUN BATTLE

Philadelphia Saloon is Scene of Fatal Clash.

NINE IN FIGHT

The shooting, it is believed, took place when William Rommell, 36, the patrolman, tried to act as peacemaker in a quarrel between four girls and five men in the saloon. It is believed that the dead man is Burton Whits, 3o, of Chester, Pa. His body was so badly torn by the gun fire that identification was difficult.

Damage estimated between $4,000 and $5,000 resulted when high wind wrecked a section of the partially completed scaffold of the new coaster ride at Rock Springs park, Chester, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The frame work collapsed and toppled over the hillside.

About 200 feet of the new concession, located between the dancing pavilion and the park office, was destroyed. The frame work for the ride was in process of erection, but was not braced.

Heavy gusts of wind caught the structure, causing the ropes, which were holding it, to break. Five oak and elm trees on the embankment overlooking Carolina avenue were ruined by the heavy timbers

Most of the lumber in the wrecked section was rendered a total loss.

Rebuilding on the damaged portion was started today. The loss, it is claimed, was fully covered by cyclone insurance carried by the H. C. Baker company, of New York, amusement park engineers, constructing the ride. The ride will be completed within the next six weeks with favorable weather prevailing, according to C. C. Macdonald, park operator.

Sheriff Searches Zellers Home, But Makes No Arrests

Sheriff George Wright accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Kindsvatter searched the home of Louis Zellers on the Calcutta-East Liverpool road about 2 o'clock Sunday morning, but found no liquor.

Several visitors were in the Zellers' home, but no arrests were made.

"Peaches"-"Daddy" Trial Breaks all Court Crowd Marks

COURT HOUSE, White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 31.—All records for crowds at the Westchester county courthouse were broken today when thousands of persons milled about to get a glimps of the principals in the Browning separation trial.

The corridors and stairways of the building, from the first to the fourth floor, where the trial is being held, was packed with struggling people.

"Peaches" arrived at the court house at 9:30 and was greeted by a cheer. It took her 10 minutes to reach the court room.

Ten minutes later "Daddy" arrived in his Rolls-Royce. He posed for pictures on the court house steps and then fought his way to the court room, amid the vociferous greetings of the mob—a large part of which was made up of flappers.

HUGH BROWN, 75, TORONTO, DIES

Funeral services for Hugh Brown, 75 years old, who died Saturday in the home of his son, James Brown, of Toronto, were held this afternoon, in charge of Rev. F. O. Wise, pastor of the Toronto Presbyterian church.

Mr. Brown, who was born in Ireland, had resided in Toronto for 42 years and until his retirement five years ago had been actively identified with the sewer pipe industry.

He is survived by the following sons and daughters: James. William and Merle, Toronto; Mrs. Fred Furrer and Mrs. Charles Knowles, East Liverpool; Mrs. Charles Handy, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Charles Sprague, Bridgeport, and Mrs. Thomas Myers, of Toronto, but who is now visiting in California.

HOLE IS TORN IN HIGHWAY AS SLIP BLOCKS TROLLEY LINE

Slide Occurs on Hillside East of Brady's Cut.

$25,000 DAMAGE

Huge Rock Topples 300 feet Onto Car Tracks.

A 200-ton boulder, loosened by thawing temperatures, crashed from the hillside 300 feet above the Wellsville-East Liverpool road, east of Brady's cut, shortly before 3 o'clock this morning, badly damaging and completely blocking the highway and two tracks of the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company.

Millworker Gives Warning.

The slip, said to have caused approximately $25,000 damage, is believed to have occurred shortly after a west-bound "dead head," carrying street car workers to their homes, passed.

A Wellsville mill worker, giving the name of Wallace, driving along the road to work, found the highway blocked by the slide. He turned his car and drove back to the Diamond and notified the street car dispatcher on duty at the Pennsylvania avenue car barns.

The huge boulder which carried with it tons of earth and dozens of smaller boulders as it broke loose from the hill high above the roadway, tore away a section of the concrete curbing on the southside of the highway driving bricks and the concrete foundation several feet into the ground. Both the eastbound and westbound car tracks were also damaged.

Wreck crew of the traction company was hurried to the scene of the slide as soon as the men could be summoned from their homes. Company officials also telephoned to R. L. Keltner, superintendent of state highway department maintenance force at Lisbon, advising him of the closing of the highway. Keltner sent a force of 10 men and three trucks to this end of the county at 7 o'clock this morning to assist in clearing the road.

Trolley cars were operating today from East Liverpool as far as the slip and from that point passengers were transferred to other cars which had been brought to Wellsville from Steubenville pending the clearing of the right of way.

A River road motor bus was sent to Wellsville over the Campground road to assist in transporting early car passengers from the slip to points west. The safety "dead head" car in Wellsville over night, operated between the blocked point and Wooster's pending the arrival of cars from Steubenville.

Dynamite Is Used.

Several charges of dynamite were used by the wreck crews in breaking the boulder. The earth and other material were thrown over the hillside

IF UNITED STATES KEEPS UP ITS PRESENT GROWTH, COUNTRY WILL HAVE POPULATION OF MORE THAN 226,500,000 IN YEAR 2,000

BY ROBERT S. THORNBURGH.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—If the United States keeps up its present rate of growth, the country will have a population of well over 226,500,000 in the year 2,000.

This estimate was based upon the announcement today by the bureau of the census, that, by July 1, the population will have passed 118,628,000, a gain of 1,492,000 in a year and 12,918,000 since 1920.

The census bureau's estimate gave the population of each state except those which had showed a decrease between 1910 and 1920, or from 1920 to 1925.

Pennsylvania gained 1,109,993 in population between 1920 and 1927. New York increased 1,037,7773 in the same period and California 1,006,139. New York led in population with 11,423,000, followed by Pennsylvania with 9,730,000.

In order to support the vast future population Secretary of Commerce Hoover believes that great progress must be made in the better utilization of raw materials, elimination of industrial waste, development of water and power resources, in science and other fields, that living standards may be maintained. He believes that the progress of scientific and industrial achievement will so increase productivity that living standards not only will be maintained but greatly improved with the growth of the nation.

The unofficial estimate for 2,000 is regarded as conservative. Officials believed that the rate of gain in population, resulting from the surplus of births over deaths will increase from year to year aside from immigration.

Public health reports show that the average span of life is increasing, partially from greater progress in medical science and sanitation, and partially from elimination of de-vitalizing manual labor possible through labor saving devices.

Estimated population of the states and the gain since 1920 were given as follows:

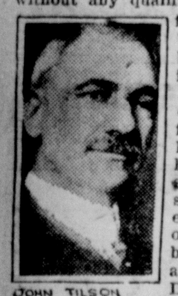
BY CHARLES R STEWART

REPUBLICAN LEADER IN HOUSE SEES PARTIES AS MUCH ALIKE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The bigger the public man, the readier he is to tell, right out, what he really thinks, without any qualifications to the effect that he mustn't be quoted. That's been my experience.



JOHN TILSON

Take a small calibre congressfor instance. He hardly feels that he can walk on the same side of the street with another congressman, if one happens to be a Republican and the other a Democrat.

But how about Col. John Q. Tilson, Republican leader in the house of representatives?

When I had occasion the other day to ask the old war horse, "What's the difference between a Republican and a Democrat?" the colonel gave utterance to this revolutionary statement: "There isn't much difference."

On second thought the colonel did try to draw some little distinction along tariff lines, but he didn't do it with any enthusiasm. He had to admit there are a good many protectionist Democrats and tariff reduction Republicans.

At the same time the colonel said, he believes in a two party government, if they're only the "ins" and the "outs."

The "ins" are in and they're responsible and they have to try to do a good job in order to stay in. The "outs'" function is to keep the "ins" up to snuff by everlastingly trying to break in, and thus becoming "ins," while transforming the erstwhile "ins" into "outs."

Tilson isn't altogether prepared to agree to a realignment of the parties as conservatives and liberals.

Political groups don't classify that way, he says.

"If a man's wisely conservative," he explains, "the other fellow's a red radical. If he's an enlightened liberal the other chap's a hidebound reactionary.

Born in Tennessee, Col. Tilson is a typical New Englander. Since he went to Yale—he worked his own way through, including the law school—he always has lived in the Nutmeg state.

He has the tall, spare, big-boned New England frame, the stubby white mustache of the elderly New Englander and the crisp efficiency of New England in his manner. If he ever had a southern drawl it's worn off from him completely.

(Finis J. Garrett, the Democratic leader in congress, also is a Tennessecan, but that's only a coincidence.)

Col. Tilson's a real soldier. He was in the Spanish war, the 2nd Connecticut Infantry and served on the Mexican border—altogether nearly 20 years of it.

He's been in congress 16 years. He has three separate offices scattered around the Capitol building, besides the floor of the house of representatives. You're likely to meet him anywhere, but you need a Capitol guide to keep track of him, he likely to be in so many different places.

As majority leader he's a stern disciplarian, but a lamb hasn't anything on him for mildness when he's off duty.

They say he's closer to President Coolidge than any other member of congress, and yet he doesn't always vote for the president's policies. For instance the president turned thumbs down on three new cruisers recently, but Tilson cast his ballot for money to start building 'em and even made a speech about it.

"Im long past the point where I care a cent for office," the colonel told me. "My sole object in coming to congress now is service."

These pictures are the work of artists representing the modern school of art.

CONWAY TEARLE AT AMERICAN

Mae Murray, dainty heroine of dozens of screen romances, has turned to comedy in her latest picture, "Altars of Desire," in which Conway Tearle plays opposite her in the featured male lead.

"Altars of Desire" is the type of comedy that has lately found favor with the film fans, the comedy flavored with romantic sophistication. In this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, at the American theatre, Miss Murray plays the part of Clare Sutherland, one that is said to compare favorably with her "Merry Widow" in opportunities for the star.

"Altars of Desire," was directed by Christy Cabanne, director of "The Midshipman," "Monte Carlo" and other successes. Maude George, Robert Edeson, Andre Beranger and others are in the cast. Marie Thompson Daviess wrote the story, which was adapted to the screen by Alice D. G. Miller and Agnes Christine Johnstone. The screen play is by Albert Lewin.

Big Game Hunter Praises "Gorilla Hunt," Coming Here

"The Gorilla Hunt," F. B. O.'s hunting narrative made by Ben Burbridge in the jungles of darkest Africa, which comes to the Ceramis theatre soon, is attracting the attention of noted hunters throughout the country. Herbert E. Bradley, well-known Chicago attorney, who has himself made several attempts to penetrate the African jungles, and who in 1921 accompanied the late Carl Akeley on an expedition into the very country depicted in "The Gorilla Hunt," speaks of this picture in these terms:

"Our party appreciated very much the private showing a few days ago of the Gorilla Hunt film by Ben Burbridge. Realizing as I do from my personal experience the great difficulty of taking pictures of wild gorillas in Africa I appreciate that the Burbridge picture is a wonderful piece of photography, both as to subject and presentation. I believe that photographing wild gorillas is probably the most difficult task in the world today and Mr. Burbridge's splendid picture could only have been brought about by endless patience and hard work.

"The Gorilla Hunt" is now in its fifth week at the Cameo theatre, Times Square, New York and is scheduled for first runs in some of the finest houses in the country. The Wisconsin, in Milwaukee, the Rialto, in Chicago, and all the Keith, Proctor and Moss theatres' are among those who have already booked it.

Loosen Up that Cold With Musterole

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all the advantages of grandmother's mustard plaster without the burn. You feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many nurses and doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and "flu".

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN.

She closed the door and came towards me with a smile, as I rose from my seat.

"Good afternoon, Mr. Quexter," she said.

The nightmare of two days' solitary confinement lay between this meeting and the last time I had seen her, and my first sensation was one of relief for something that at least restored me to memories of human companionship and the open air. My impulse was to welcome her as a friend.

She was wearing an afternoon frock of brown crepe de chine, with a string of fine pearls around her neck. It was the first time that I had seen her without a hat, and I noted the way in which her brown hair curled naturally about her ears.

I suppressed an impulse to appeal to her frankly as a comrade and fell into the opposite extreme of formality.

"To what am I indebted for the honor of this visit?" I asked.

"Lord, how terribly solemn we are! Why not just assume that I wanted to see you?"

In spite of myself I smiled. She seemed such a child and her gayety was infectious.

"And why should you want to see me?" I began.

"Who knows?" she replied. "One can never be really sure why one does things. Perhaps it's because I like your name. It's Robert—isn't it?—A common name but full of romance."

I looked at her in astonishment.

"There was Robert King of France," she went on, half to herself, "who wrote hymns; a Robert of Normandy, who failed to take England but captured Jerusalem; a Robert of Scotland, and even a Robert of Geneva, a wicked anti-pope, whom they besieged in Avignon during the Great Schism."

I said nothing in answer to this historical disquisition.

"I think you must be like the other Roberts," she continued. "They were all strong and medieval and not very polite."

"What is it you want?" I repeated stolidly. 'I can't imagine you've come here to discuss my Christian name."

She looked grave at that and said in a low voice and with a show of feeling. "I have come here as your friend, Robert Quexter. You are in considerable danger, but, if only you will be frank with me, I shall perhaps be able to help you."

She came close to me, and with the air of one moved by an irresistible but reluctant emotion, she said almost in a whisper:

"Mr. Quexter, there are times when the ordinary formalities are foolish and out of place. I want to help you. Please believe that I do. But I'm powerless to help unless you tell me the truth."

I looked at her again. It was difficult to believe that she was the emissary of Mr. Center, come to secure my confidence and to betray it. I almost prayed, but in vain, that she would not mention the handkerchief. But her next words left me no doubt as to the nature of her mission.

"Two days ago,' she said, "you pretended to restore to me a certain handkerchief, but it was a different one, and I can do nothing for you unless you will tell me everything you know about it."

I looked at her grieved that she should be playing the game of my enemies. She could not mistake or ignore my attitude. She laid her hand gently on my knee.

"Believe me," she pleaded in a distress that seemed to be genuine, "I really do want to help you. That, at least, is true."

"Very possibly," I said. "It is also true that you have come here on behalf of your employer to entrap me into giving you my confidence."

She looked at me reproachfully a moment.

"Well," she replied, "what if it be so. It's the only way to save you."

"You speak in riddles," I said, "and it will be best perhaps to end this interview at once."

She made a little wringing motion of the hands.

"Oh, my friend," she cried. "You are playing a dangerous game. What is the use of it? We know that the handkerchief was in the laundry. We know that you took it away from there. Where is it now? The handkerchief you gave me is not the right one, and you must surely know where the right one is to be found. What is your object in this business? How

"I am not," I answered shortly.

"And the man from New York," she inquired.

"I met him entirely by accident at Dijon."

"That meeting was not of my seeking," I answered grimly.

"You visited the police together."

"I had been kidnapped and threatened with murder. In such circumstances, it is usual to visit the police."

"You can tell us nothing about the man from New York, or of his plans?"

"I haven't the least idea where he is or what he may be doing."

"You have no idea why we are anxious to obtain the handkerchief?"

"Not the least idea."

She leaned back wearily.

"You do not believe me," I suggested.

"You have told me the truth, but not all the truth," she replied. "You are an intelligent man, Mr. Quexter. You could not possibly fail to know more than you pretend."

She leaned forward again, her eyes urgently appealing.

"What has become of the handkerchief? You must tell me that. It is a matter of life and death."

VERA GORDON AT CERAMIC

Plays Mother Role in Picture, "Private Izzy Murphy."

All who remember Vera Gordon as the mother in "Humoresque," and there are hundreds of thousands who do remember her, will rejoice that she has been chosen as the mother in George Jessel's starring vehicle, "Private Izzy Murphy," the Warner picture directed by Lloyd Bacon, which opens a three-day run at the Ceramic theatre today.

Miss Gordon's vivid and poignant performances seem to be the incarnation of all the joys and sorrows of mothers everywhere. She seems actually to be the mother she portrays. In "Private Izzy Murphy" she is Izzy's mother, and we see her first when with her husband, she comes to the home of her good son has prepared for her in the New World. Izzy has been successful in his delicatessen venture. He has taken the name of "Murphy" on account of the nationality of his customers. And a daughter of Erin it is, Eileen, played by Patsy Ruth Miller, who captured the susceptible heart of Izzy.

Miss Gordon's role runs the whole scale of emotions—delight at her boy's business success; pride in his fine youth and strength; grief when he must go with the "Fighting 69th" overseas; agony when the word comes that he has been killed in action; wild, uncontrollable delight when, in the pink of condition, he comes footing it up Fifth Avenue, under the arches and flags, when the war is over, and a mad mingling of many emotions when he marries. But Vera Gordon must be seen to be appreciated, and when once seen as a "mother" she is never forgotten.

Auto Safety Code

Three persons were killed and 14 injured Saturday, while many other names were added to the casualty list Sunday, as a result of automobile accidents, which, judging from the January toll, are expected to claim 25,000 victims this year. Last year 23,000 men, women and children were killed by motor vehicles.

The appalling cost of carelessness and recklessness has prompted a study of the traffic problem by safety organizations and automobile clubs. The street safety committee of the New York Automobile club, according to announcement by the National Safety council, has adopted simple suggestions for motorists, pedestrians and children, which, if practiced, should reduce the rapidly growing list of victims.

For auto owners and operators the following suggestions are made:

Obey traffic rules, signals and commands of traffic officers.

Use tire chains when streets are wet or covered with snow or ice.

Give hand signal when stopping or turning.

Be sure both headlights are lighted at night and properly adjusted.

When in doubt have auto under control, ready for a quick stop.

Don't read a paper, book or magazine when crossing street.

Obey traffic officers or traffic signal lights.

Don't step into the street from behind a parked auto or other vehicle.

Do not play in the street.

Play on the sidewalk or nearest playground or vacant lot.

Roller skate on sidewalk where vehicles cannot harm you.

Don't "hitch on" autos, street cars or other vehicles.

Never play around autos or touch any of the levers.

Never run between parked autos or other vehicles in the street.

Do not fear the traffic officers—he will help and protect you.

Never run behind a standing street car; there may be another car or auto coming on the other side.

It will pay all persons who use the streets to heed these hints.

Paying For Camp Service

Methods of conducting tourist camps come in for discussion at this time of year. A great many cities and towns in all parts of the country now have such camps. Pennsylvania lists eight camps of this sort located in the open country. They vary in type from an open space among trees to elaborately equipped sites with running water, lights, stoves and other conveniences.

One question in regard to camps which is still unsettled is the advisability of maintaining them free or of charging a nominal fee for their use. Another important question involves the length of time any tourist may remain.

There seems to be a growing opinion that it is wise to charge a little for camp service. It seems to be human nature to have more respect for a thing that is paid for. There are fewer abuses of camp privileges when even as little as 50 cents is paid for a night's stop-over.

The director of Denver's publicity bureau says that after interviewing hundreds of tourists he is convinced that the fee plan is preferred by them. Denver's camp last season took in about $16,000 at 50 cents a tourist, and used the money in improving the camp.

A time limit on the camper is necessary in many places to eliminate not the bona fide tourist but the loafers who are simply trying to escape their just share of the cost of living by hanging out in free camps, only moving on when forced to by local authorities.

Touring has undoubtedly come to stay, and camping out along the way is steadily gaining in popularity. It is therefore only a matter of time and experience until the details of public camp management are successfully worked out.

My Favorite Stories

A MIXED LOT OF MISSES AND CHILDREN SIZES

It seems to me that stories of children go best in batches or groups. So here's a batch:

Little Georgie's mother died. The husband mourned so hard that the mourning job was finished in two months. At the end of those two months the widower married again. Such seemingly unseasonable haste on his part stirred the neighborhood gossips who condemned the daddy and pitied his six-year-old offspring. A lady waylaid Georgie and asked him how he was treated by his new stepmother and whether he liked her.

"Oh, gee," said Georgie, "she's great! I wish I had a stepfather, too!"

The teacher had been telling the young members of her class about the landing of the Pilgrims. She suggested that the youngsters each should draw a picture of the Plymouth Rock.

One little chap started, then hesitated and raised his hand.

"Please, teacher," he asked, "do you want it to be a hen or a rooster?"

"Oh, mother!" she cries out. "Our pussy-cat has got some kittens and I didn't even know she was married!"

Marjorie, aged four, marched into the grocers to tell the news.

"We've got a new baby brother up at our house," she said.

"You don't tell me?" said the grocer. "Is he going to stay with you?"

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Early for a brisk walk and saw many about I did not expect to see. Among them Eddie Foy's son, Charlie, Irving Berlin and Maxwell Bodenheim. To breakfast and to browse among foreign magazines in a bookshop.

Later with my wife to a jewel shop and saw a pear-shaped diamond valued at $80,000, and other costly baubles, too, but being only there to look, I told the clerk I had heard that if a certain syndicate released all their diamonds they would be as cheap as pebbles, but he declared it untrue.

So home and studied my French lesson, but am making no progress whatever and intend to abandon it. Nor was I ever able to learn a thing from study books. And to casting my accounts and find myself increasingly unprosperous. Thence wearily to bed.

It is a rather grim business for an unknown to shop for expensive jewels in Gotham, although the prospective customer is usually unconscious of the grimness. Unless his reliability is fully known he is subjected to an armed espionage.

He is ushered into a black paneled room where a salesman displays jewels under a single glittering light. At a peep-hole is an all seeing eye and a hand that rests lightly on an automatic. Another armed guard loiters about the door.

This precaution is taken only when there is the slightest suspicion or the customer is not properly vouched for. The hazards are so great in handling precious stones the protection must be certain. And it is for this reason no great robbery ever takes place in a shop.

Jewels are mostly stolen in transit or by cleverly arranged coups. In the great show rooms all the clerks have pistol permits and there are various electrical contrivances at hand to flash word to all precinct police stations.

There are so many bachelor Brummels with butter fingers in the Park avenue purlieus who cannot tie evening bow ties that the manager of a haberdashery shop prospers rather handsomely as expert in aiding them. At first he served many customers as a courtesy, but this took up so much time he decided to charge a slight fee of 50 cents per tie. His work is so deft many prefer his handiwork to that of their valets. A properly tied bow is the most distinguishing feature of correct evening dress.

There is such stilted aloofness when strangers gather in New York that often I feel I'd like to rush off where a stranger greets a stranger with a rousing Rotarian slap on the back. Frequently I find myself abashed at receiving a slight suggestion of a bow in exchange for an enthusiastically outstretched hand. It is beginning to be bad form hereabouts to shake hands at a formal introduction.

Even in club lounges one often notices that starchy stiffness. Sometimes I thing metropolitan congeniality went out when pipe-smoking was relegated to the links and woods. Oddly, the greatest warmth of friendliness is found among the hard-boiled haunts of Broadway.

There are, by the way, two doughty old clubmen who recently had a break in their long friendship. It was one of those feminine quarrels that masculine members of society often indulge. For a year now they have often been seen eating at the same table and occupying neighboring lounge chairs, and yet they have not once spoken since the split.

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Salutes and Ceremonies.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 29.—There have been issued recently new army regulations on salutes and ceremonies which, while they do not include many actual changes, are in some ways more explicit. To the average civilian military salutes and ceremonies are more or less mysterious but exceedingly impressive, although during the World war so many civilians became soldiers that a larger percentage of the population now has an understanding of just what should be done when the flag passes or when the national anthem is played, than had formerly.

In the new regulations many fine points are elucidated. For instance, in the paragraph telling what officers and enlisted men should do whenever the national anthem or "To the Colors" is sounded, particular instructions are given with regard to those mounted on animals or riding in vehicles. The former will halt and render the salute mounted.

"Vehicles in motion will be brought to a halt. Occupants of vehicles (except drivers) will dismount. Drivers of vehicles will sit at 'attention.' Individuals leading animals or standing to horses will stand at 'attention' but will not salute."

Also in the new regulations what is meant by out of doors, indoors, and under arms is carefully defined. The old rules merely gave instructions regarding salutes out of doors and indoors. It is now explained that drill halls, riding halls, gymnasiums, and other roofed inclosures used for drill or exercise of troops are considered out of doors.

Therefore all officers upon meeting in any such places must salute, the junior first, except in certain specified cases. An officer of whatever rank when making a report to the representative of a common superior, as for instance, the adjutant or officer of the day, will salute first. Salutes are not required when officers meet if either is driving a vehicle.

Indoors is described as referring to offices, hallway, kitchens, orderly rooms, amusement rooms, bath rooms, dwellings, etc. Officers are not required to salute each other in any of those place unless making or receiving an official report. Enlisted men and officers ordinarily do not salute each other when indoors unless they are addressing each other.

Saluting an Officer.

When an officer enters a room, however, an enlisted man must stand at attention until he leaves or indicates otherwise. When there are more than one enlisted man in the room the first one who sees the officer calls "attention" and the others immediately rise. This becomes practically second nature with men in the service and an example of this is told of several members of the Marine Corps. These boys had just completed a course which prepared them for commissions and it was only a matter of a few days when they would receive their commissions as second lieutenants. They were, therefore, "sitting pretty" and really did not necessarily need to "make character" with any of the officers. A young first lieutenant wandered in thinking to have a chat with them, since they were so soon to become brother officers. Two of them were having a game of chess, one was reading, and the fourth was asleep. As soon as the officer entered the room one of the chess players called "'tenshun" and they all immediately rose, even the one who had been taking a nap.

The various salutes with guns have always been of particular interest to civilians. The national salute, as probably every one knows, is 21 guns and this is also the salute to a national flag. It is provided in the regulations that on July 4 at noon at every military post, which has the proper artillery, there shall be fired a salute to the Union. This is commemorative of the Declaration of Independence and consists of one gun for each state.

On the 30th of May, Memorial Day, the national flag is displayed at half-staff from reveille until noon at all posts and camps. Just before noon appropriate music is played by the

The Pennsylvania Railroad
The World's Greatest Transportation System

The story of the growth of the Pennsylvania Railroad System closely parallels the rise of the ideas of American nationalism and unity.

Following the close of the Revolutionary War, and during the first decades of the nineteenth century, the population of the United States was still concentrated almost entirely on or close to a narrow strip of seaboard. The Allegheny Mountains were the frontier. Beyond them the total population was extremely small.

Inland travel and transportation west of the Allegheny Mountains was centered largely upon the Ohio-Mississippi-Missouri rivers and the Great Lakes.

Keen rivalry between New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore for the growing and prospective western trade developed. The position and future outlook of Philadelphia was seriously threatened by the construction of the Erie Canal, and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad which planned a line into Pittsburgh.

These three factors brought about a situation which resulted in linking Philadelphia and Pittsburgh by a series of rails, rivers and canals as remarkable as any in the world's history, and to which the Pennsylvania System owes its origin.

Thus, while the inception of the Pennsylvania was purely a local project, it has been developed into a national medium of transportation. By reason of its extent, the character of the territory it serves, and its highly developed traffic, The Standard Railroad of the World comes nearer to being a completely integrated system than any now existing.

The Pennsylvania owns and operates more than 27,000 miles of tracks. Its lines traverse thirteen states and the District of Columbia, containing nearly half the country's population, about two-thirds of the entire national wealth, and serving an even greater proportion of the country's industrial, commercial, mining and agricultural enterprises.

A great measure of credit is due The Pennsylvania System for the industrial and commercial development not only of East Liverpool, but for the entire Ohio Valley. The people in this territory are justifiably proud to be served by the world's greatest transportation system.

J. H. BAILEY'S FUNERAL TODAY

Services Held in Second Presbyterian Church.

Funeral services for Joseph H. Bailey, 57, who died in his home, Dewey avenue, last Friday, after six days' illness, were conducted in the Second Presbyterian church, Virginia avenue, this afternoon, in charge of Rev. Frederic A. Dean, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. George C. Westlake, pastor of the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal church. Burial was made in Locust Hill cemetery, near Chester.

Mr. Bailey was born in Pleasant county, Ohio, December 4, 1869, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher W. Bailey. He was an engineer and was employed at the Harker pottery for many years. He was a member of the Second Presbyterian church.

His first wife nee Eva Pugh, died in January, 1921. In June, 1923, he married Mrs. Rose Bailey. Besides his widow, he is survived by one son, Lawrence Bailey, and the following brothers and sisters: Owen S. Bailey and Mrs. Nancy Wherry, St. Marys, W. Va.; Calvin H. Bailey, Beloit; Mrs. Fannie Kidder, East Liverpool. Three half brothers, Wasson, Everett and John Bailey, all of Chester, and a half sister, Mrs. John Talbert, of Newell, also survive.

BOYCE CHURCH REVIVAL MEETS

Approximately 140 persons have professed conversion in the revival services which have been in progress at the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church, East End, for the last two weeks.

The campaign which is in charge of Rev. J. Lloyd McQueen, pastor, assisted by John Guy, song leader and personal worker, will continue for another week.

To Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to make. Saves about $2.

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is, pine has a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. This makes a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold instantly. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, bronchitis and hoarseness.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PINEX for Coughs...

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

How Children Quickly Gain Robust Health

For weak, puny, inactive children—and especially those that have rickets, and need a sure builder that promotes the growth of teeth and bones, cod liver oil is the one medicine supreme—nothing helps like it.

But it is nasty and repulsive and evil smelling and nearly always upsets children's stomachs—so now up-to-date pharmacists advise McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, with their wealth of vitamines.

Children love them as they do candy, because they are sugar coated and easy to take. One boy gained 11½ pounds in seven weeks, and is now healthy and happy—thousands of other children have grown strong and robust.

Sixty tablets for 60 cents at druggists everywhere. Try them for 30 days and if you are not happily satisfied with the test get your money back. But demand McCoy's—it pays to get the genuine.

Q. How many cities have the city manager plan of government? F. A. L.

A. By the end of 1926 356 cities had adopted the city manager plan in the United States.

Q. Is there a bird that eats snakes? C. G. L.

A. The Biological Survey says that the secretary bird and the road runner eat snakes and lizards.

Q. As a result of the hurricane, has the Gulf Stream come a mile and a half nearer to the coast of Florida? E. P. H.

A. In general, nothing of the kind has happened. It may be that in some places breakwaters, sandbars, etc., have been altered, with corresponding slight local changes in the movement of the water. In general, however, the Gulf Stream is just where it was, and where probably, it has been for ages.

Q. When was Unter den Linden built? R. C. B.

A. Unter den Linden was begun in the reign of Frederick William (1640-1688), the founder of the Prussian state. The forest once on the site of the avenue was removed and a double row of linden trees was planted on each side of which gradually sprang up the modern street.

Q. What is the difference between a snowstorm and a Wyoming blizzard? A. K.

A. The Weather Bureau says that a blizzard is a very cold, strong to violent wind filled with driving snow. The snow may or may not be falling from clouds above. A snowstorm is just any storm, regardless of the wind velocity and temperature, during which an appreciable amount of snow falls.

Q. Tell something about the Mona Lisa. C. N. C.

A. Mona Lisa was painted by Leonardo da Vinci. The subject of the portrait belonged to a distinguished family who lived for some time in exile in Naples. The background of the portrait includes the rocks and running stream which are characteristic of the backgrounds painted by the foremost painter of the Milanese School. Mona Lisa now hangs in the Louvre Gallery, Paris.

Rheumatism can't be rubbed away

Are you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S. S. S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered from rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried most everything. Went to Hot Springs and finally I decided to try S. S. S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I also had a breaking out on my hands for years that nothing would heal, but now this has disappeared, and I am sure that it was S. S. S. which removed the cause. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S. S. S. is the best." Carl C. Campbell, 115 West Main street, Johnson City, Tenn.

S. S. S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Stock Reduction Sale Of

Monuments AND Markers

Continued Until SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 5th

Because of weather conditions prevailing during the time our Stock Reduction Sale has been in progress, many families were unable to take advantage of the price reductions offered. We have had numerous telephone calls, letters and personal calls asking for a few days extention to permit families to make selections. To give each family in this community a final opportunty to select a memorial, we hereby announce that sale prices will be effective until Saturday evening, February 5th.

If you are planning the erection of a memorial within the next year, you will be able to effect an attractive saving by purchasing during the final week of this sale. Our show rooms are filled with beautiful examples of the memorial workers art and you will find it a pleasure to make selections from such a varied display.

Arrange now to either visit our sales room or have a representative call at your home. While this sale has been continued until Saturday night former prices will positively become effective Monday morning, February 7th.

WHEELING MAN IS CONSIDERED FOR POST HERE

Directors Will Discuss Proposal Tomorrow Night.

D. E. Spotswood May Make Industrial Survey.

Employment of D. E. Spotswood, of Wheeling, as a civic engineer for the city of Wellsville, at a salary of $1,000 annually, will be considered by directors and officers of the Wellsville chamber of commerce at a meeting tomorrow night in the city hall building, Fifth and Main street.

Advisability of engaging Spotswood, who has been working in the Wheeling-Bridgeport-Bellaire district for some time has been under consideration by the chamber for several days following a conference with the civic engineer last week.

Among the engineer's preliminary duties, in the event that his services are engaged tomorrow night, will be the completion of an industrial survey of the city, and steps for procuring new industries for the district.

SUNDAY BLAZE DAMAGES HOME

RAILROAD MAN INJURED WHEN HIT BY BRICK

William Quinn Hurt Following Dennison Wreck.

Struck in the face with a brick, thrown from a derailed freight car near Dennison yesterday, William Quinn, 29, Pennsylvania railroad employe, and former resident of Wellsville, today was forced to enter a Cleveland hospital for treatment.

Quinn, who resided in Broadway prior to his transfer to Dennison, has been engaged as a signal man.

A freight train and a passenger train collided near Dennison and workers were employed in cleaning off the tracks when Quinn passed one of the cars loaded with brick. Men at the time were engaged in throwing the bricks out of the car. Quinn called to the crew but, apparently, he was unheard and as he passed one of the bricks hit him directly in the face.

600 PERSONS HEAR SERMON BY DR. KNAPP

"Out of Pit" Theme of Sunday Evening Discourse.

TWO SERVICES

More than 600 persons filled to near capacity the auditorium, Sunday school room, gallery and connecting spaces of the Methodist Protestant church last evening as Dr. W. A. Knapp, Westerville, Ohio evangelist emphasized in an outstanding sermon the love of God for sinners. His theme was "Out of the Pit."

The service culminated a notable day of religious activity by the congregation that started in the morning with the Sunday school exceeding its designated quota of 303 by 75, a total of 378 attending. Thirteen classes had their entire enrollments out. Then followed the first of Dr. Knapp's two sermons which a large throng heard, while in the afternoon teams of men visited various sections of the city in the interest of potential and former members of the local denomination.

Mrs. G. E. Vinaroff, who is assisting in musical features at evangelistic services at the First Methodist Protestant church.

Thrilled by the interest shown during the initial week of the campaign the program for the second includes a cross service on Tuesday evening which is promised to be one of the most unique of the revival in that the cross will be featured in sermon and song. On Wednesday, "Friendship Night" will be observed when members are to bring their closest friends to the meeting.

A mother and daughter night, an unprecedent revival feature hereabouts, will be noted on Thursday evening when reserved seats are to be kept for the large feminine contingent expected while the men attending will be shunted to the galleries and side rooms. Gifts will be presented the oldest and youngest mothers present.

On Friday night the service will be reversed with men and boys attending. To the man bringing in the largest number a useful gift will be given. The children as on last Saturday night will form the special feature with singing of songs for which they are daily practicing.

The Sunday night musical service included the song, "It's a Great Salvation," by a group of boys; an appealing number of Mrs. Vinaroff, accompanied by Miss Jessie Hall, who with the former as pianist utilized the organ during the choral number directed by Mr. Viranoff, "Wonderful Grace of Jesus." The latter's solo at the conclusion of Dr. Knapp's sermon, "Christ is Walking Everywhere," was very well received.

No services will be held this evening as Monday is the rest day of the campaign.

By reason of the large Sunday school attendance of the day a new goal, that of 403, has been set for next Sunday.

"The devil never gave any one trouble over sin. He is satisfied with it," declared Dr. Knapp. "It is God who makes it bitter by taking peace and joy from it by having the Holy Spirit convict us of sin. Thus we are brought into a realization of the need of Christ so that it might be nullified in our souls and forgiven. The devil likewise makes all of our doubts as God arranges for conviction.

Dr. Knapp pointed out how modernists and the intelligensia of the day had changed the idea given by the fathers and the Bible concerning sin. "They had laughed out of court the old doctrine of total depravity, giving it a superficial treatment as the consciousness of imperfection and the failure to attain our ideals," he said.

"The overt act of sin goes back to the heart. Its hideousness and potentialities can not be dissipated until its cause is located.

Despite the heinousness of sin Dr. Knapp declared God loved the sinner as he does the sinless. "Once this fact is assimilated all sins save the persistent refusal to accept Christ can be forgiven by Him once the sinner shows repentance. "Thus he puts our sins behind His back and remembers them against us no more."

East Liverpool's greatest asset is not a pottery, a bank or any other of its business institutions, but one of its human souls, said Dr. Knapp on Saturday night. "The soul of one of these boys and girls will outlive all of these institutions. A man will unhesitatingly jump into a river to save another's life. But how many, failing to realize the soul's worth will attempt to bring it into saving relationship with God. The Christian knows the soul's value trancends all wealth, fame, power and pleasure that is possible on earth. He leads the unselfish, not the selfish, life. He apparently, losing his life here by reason of lacking what the world holds as pertinent; and in doing so, finds it. The sinner on the contrary, in his worldly acquirements, seemingly winning, finds in the end that he has lost it 'For what shall a man give for his soul.'

Appealingly featuring Saturday night's service was the singing of a children's choir, trained by Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Vinaroff. Lined across the front of the church they drew applause with their song: "I Have a Joy in My Heart." The solo of Mr. Vinaroff was "Somebody Needs Even You." The invocation was by Mrs. Burbick.

Columbus Fire Fighter Praises Tanlac

J. E. Owen led a strenuous life. At 53 the strain told and health gave way. For several months a victim of stomach trouble. Now in rugged health, gives full credit to Tanlac.

Mr. Owen is well and favorably known in Columbus, Ohio, which city he has served faithfully for many years. He lives at 40 Clarendon Ave. To use Mr. Owen's words, "As a result of poor eating and worse digestion, I developed a bad case of stomach trouble, which ran me down and kept me in low condition for months.

"My stomach seemed to go wrong all of a sudden and would neither retain nor digest even the lightest food. It was sour, gassy and bloated most of the time, and kept me in misery. I felt draggy and without the slightest energy. My weight dropped from 170 to 140 pounds and I kept getting weaker.

"It wasn't a week after taking Tanlac till I was feeling 100 per cent better. Four bottles put my stomach in A-1 condition and left me eating like a house afire. Now I eat what I please without discomfort. That draggy feeling gave way to my old time vigor and I'm back again at my normal 170 lb. weight. And all in a few weeks! I praise Tanlac all the time."

If overwork or neglect have lowered your health, try Tanlac. It is nature's body builder, made of herbs, roots and barks. Your druggist has it. Over 52 million bottles sold.

LEGISLATIVE JAM FACES CONGRESS IN NINTH WEEK

MANY BILLS BELIEVED TO BE FOREDOOMED

CLAMOR BEGINS

No Organized Movement for Extra Session After March 4.

BY WILLIAM S. NEAL.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Congress began its ninth week today facing a legislative jam which, leaders admit, foredooms most of the important bills now pending.

Not a single piece of major legislation has passed both houses with the exception of appropriation bills. Nor is there at present a definitely organized movement for an extra session after March 4th.

Farm relief, Muscle Shoals and Boulder dam loomed today as the most important controversal issues yet to be decided. Backers of a dozen other measures are clamoring for recognition.

The situation apparently does not alarm congressional leaders. The chief purpose of the short session they point out, is to make appropriations. The country, too, they say, is clamoring for fewer laws rather than more.

Program Not Touched.

Swerved from its legislative course by the international situation and the fight over the seats of Senator Gould (R.) of Maine, Senator-designate Frank L. Smith of Illinois and the Cyrus Woods nomination, the senate has not touched the program laid down by its steering committee.

This program includes the Gooding long and short haul bill, the Capper truth-in-fabric bill, Boulder dam, the French spoliation claims, two prohibition reorganization bills, and reorganization of foreign commerce bureau.

House leaders have given right of way to the agricultural surplus bill. The house may consider a bill to dispose of Muscle Shoals, a reapportionment bill, soldiers' loan measure and the Swing-Johnson Boulder dam bill unless buried by the rules committee. The Parker railroad consolidation bill is still in committee.

The senate now has before it the alien property, McFadden branch banking and radio control measures which have been approved by the house. The radio compromise is expected to be accepted while the fate of the other two measures is doubtful.

Two of President Coolidge's most important recommendations—the coal industry regulation bill and a tax rebate—fell by the wayside early in the session.

Congress apparently will write its session record in the total of its appropriation bills, and what it does not do rather than what it does do.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Industrial stocks in the early trading today were under the influence of the short covering which produced the closing rally of prices on Saturday. The week-end developments in the Chinese, Nicaraguan and Mexican "situations" were gradualy favorable and the street was inclined to ignore the $15,900,000 deficit reported in the weekly clearing house statement.

Brisk buying was resumed in a number of railroad stocks, including New Haven and Chesapeake and Ohio. New financing of the latter system in the amount of $60,000,000 is expected to take the form of a stock issue, the interstate commerce commission having refused to sanction a bond issue to reimburse the Treasury for expenditures on capital account. Strength in New Haven is due to expectation of a resumption of dividends this year. Buoyancy in the industrials was generally confined to stocks in which a heavy short interest existed.

General Motors sold up 2½ and Baldwin advanced about a point. Motors and Independent Oils were firm, with Sinclair preferred leading the latter group. This stock sold at 103, the highest price in the history of the company and reflected the gradual strengthening of the financial position of Sinclair consolidated.

Professionals were active in the tobacco stocks and a few of the specialties but outside speculative interest in these stocks was negligible. Stocks of the amusement companies were pushed along to slightly higher price levels, under the lead of Loews Inc., which sold above 53. Tire stocks and automobile accessory stocks were also inclined to slightly higher levels.

The commodity markets were quiet, with prices steady. Call money renewals 4 per cent unchanged from last Saturday.

LINER CELTIC SAILS AFTER CRASH AT SEA

Famous Ocean Greyhound in Collision With Freighter.

650 ARE ABOARD

Shipping Back on Schedule After 48-hour Fog.

BOSTON, Jan. 31.—Ten hours after she arrived in port from New York, with two gaping holes in her iron plates and a huge anchor clinging to 20 feet of battered railing, the White Star liner Celtic sailed today for Queenstown.

The famous ocean greyhound, with 650 persons aboard, including 252 passengers for Europe, was in collision with the American Diamond freighter Anaconda, in a fog 25 miles east of Fire Island.

The Anaconda reached New York in safety, and as soon as the Celtic docked here to pick up 90 more passengers repairmen went to work on a rush job.

Ferryboat Goes Aground.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Promised at least partial lifting today of the dense fog which for more than 48 hours had cloaked the north Atlantic coast in an impenetrable shroud, the shipping world strove to get back on schedule after having been completely tied up over the week-end.

Almost no shipping moved during the period, and those ships which did move did so at their peril. The S. S. Celtic, crack trans-Atlantic liner of the White Star fleet, left Boston today after receiving emergency repairs to two large holes ripped in her port side when she collided near Fire island Saturday night with the Diamond line freighter Anaconda.

A ferryboat went aground on Governor's island with four hundred passengers aboard. She was later pulled off and resumed her voyage.

Fear that the fishing boat Nancy B., out of Sheepshead bay, with 15 men aboard, had met with disaster in the fog was expressed today when a radio appeal to coast-wise shipping failed to locate the little craft. The Nancy B. left Sheepshead bay at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and was scheduled to return at 6 o'clock last night.

Dr. George Gourley Re-elected Finance Company President

Dr. George F. Gourley, Steubenville, was re-elected president of the Columbiana County Finance company, at the annual meeting of the stockholders at its offices, 121 West Sixth street, it was announced today.

Other officers named were: George Steele, East Liverpool, vice-president; W. S. Foulks, East Liverpool, treasurer; W. H. Shaw, East Liverpool, secretary.

Shaw was re-elected manager of the company.

Ship Carrying 27 Men, Goes on Rocks In Lifting Fog

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Jan. 31.—With 27 men aboard but in no immediate danger, the steamship Anthony O'Boyle, Norfolk for Boston with coal, was on the rocks in the lifting fog off Robinson's hole, here today.

The ship was leaking badly and tugs were sent to her assistance.

Two Men Hurt as Coupe Overturns And "Gas" Ignites

Ralph Lowe, automobile accessory salesman, and Leonard Stevenson West Ninth street garage owner, received minor injuries when the Dodge coupe, which they were driving, skidded and overturned on the Long's Run hill, north of Stop 55 on the Y. & O. railroad Saturday.

The machine caught fire from gasoline leading from the vacuum system following the accident and the two men were forced to break the glass in the doors of the car to make their escape. The car was destroyed.

Lowe returned to East Liverpool, secured another car and drove to Cleveland where he was attended by a physician in a hotel. Stevenson whose left leg was injured, returned home today.

COURT BARS 'PEACHES' DIARY

Letters by Browning's Bride Also Are Excluded.

Miss Tussey testified that Bondy Croner, her landlord, told her if she wanted to make some money she should testify for Browning.

Bondy Croner was then called to the stand.

"Did Miss Tussey tell you that 'Peaches' wanted her to act as a witness for her?" Mack asked.

"Yes."

"Did Mr. Browning say he would make it interesting for Miss Tussey if she testified for him?"

"He did not."

Under cross-examination by Epstein, Croner admitted he called up Browning last Saturday and told him Miss Tussey was home and ready to be subpoenaed.

"Did you get anything?"

"Yes—five dollars."

The witness admitted he got $5 on another occasion.

Miss Margaret Leu, was the next witness. She said she was present at an interview between Croner and Miss Tussey.

Mrs. Louisa Croner, wife of Croner, was then called.

Leslie Fullenwelder, a representative of the Famous Features syndicate, was next. He told of an interview with "Peaches" in the presence of her mother.

STEAMER SINKS; 30 MEN SAVED

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31. — The American steamship Juvigny sank in Delaware river bay near Reedy island after colliding with the British freighter Valemore early today. According to reports reaching here, the 30 members of the crew were picked up by the Valemore and are enroute here.

Change of Venue Motion in Rudner Case Before Court

CANTON, Jan. 31.—A motion for a change of venue in the trial of Ben Rudner, alleged member of the assassin band which murdered Don R. Mellett, was scheduled to be heard here late this afternoon before Common Pleas Judge A. W. Agler.

E. L. Mills, attorney for Rudner, filed the motion several weeks ago, basing his plea on the charge that prejudice caused by newspaper articles would preclude a fair and impartial trial for his client.

Paul "Smoky" Marshall will face Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon upon a charge of "breaking glass in a pool room."

Marshall was arrested by Patrolman Herman Roth in the American pool room at 6:15 Saturday night after he is alleged to have hurled a bottle to the floor. The bottle was smashed and its contents scattered about the floor.

Marshall was a liberty today under a $25 bond.

That sounds more like Hollywood history than real history. But if the thing really happened it would be worth while to find some of the spy's younger sisters and scatter them around in Europe, or possibly even on this side of the ocean.

LADY RHONDDA, British business woman, said, "Existence of the leisured woman constitutes a grave menace to civilization," but it really doesn't. Eve, a "leisured woman," might have kept out of mischief, with a sewing machine or typewriter to keep her busy. He descendants have done fairly well, however.

A WOMAN must have twenty-five years of study and leisure, then twenty years to produce and bring up children. The rest of her life should include leisure to inspire men with ambitious energy. Women ought not to work, only create, and inspire dull male workers.

IT may comfort you to know that there is prosperity somewhere. New York's Park Avenue association says that street leads the world for "concentrated private buying power." A prosperous little group living in Park avenue has $280,000,000 to spend on luxuries, on things pleasant, but not necessary. The average annual income in that modern canyon of fashion and wealth is $75,000. Where money is, business goes.

MR. FRANKLIN SIMON, of New York, a merchant who knows business, has said that Park avenue, before long, will be one of the greatest retail streets in the whole world. You might buy yourself a lot there.

SCHOOL CHIEF CLUB SPEAKER

C. A. White, Lisbon, Makes Address at Y. M. C. A.

Charles A. White, principal of the Lisbon High school and a former member of the state legislature, addressed members of the Sunday Afternoon club in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Sixty-one young men, between the ages of 16 and 26 attended the meeting.

Special music was rendered by an instrumental trio. In his address White said:

"The United States is the greatest nation on earth. The Mayflower pact, drawn up by the Pilgrims, was the beginning of our government. If England had allowed the colonists representation in the house of commons there would have been no United States.

"The war lasted six years from Lexington to Yorktown. The declaration of independence was drafted and accepted on July 4, 1776. Congress was composed of 55 men. They had no government except the articles of confederation.

"George Washington was unanimously chosen president of the constitutional congress. Benjamin Franklin suggested prayer in congress and thereafter the sessions were opened each morning with prayer. Gladstone said that the Declaration of Independence is 'the greatest piece of work ever struck off by the human brain.' It is up to us to live for America, exalt America, love America, and if need be die for America."

ARMY AND AIR FORCES PLAN BIG MANEUVER

Texas Will Witness Peace Time Military Display.

SUMMER EVENT

Famous Second Division Will be Central Unit.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas—The greatest army maneuver ever staged in peace time will be held during the coming summer, if sufficient funds to carry out the plans can be obtained, high army officials of this area have announced.

The tactical plan will be built around the Second Division, famous war-time regular army division which saw such hard and gallant service around Chateau Thierry and other hard-fought fields in France. This division, it was learned, is practically the only one of the famous war-time divisions left intact.

Several army air corps groups also are to be brought in from the different flying fields throughout the country to participate in the great maneuver, it was said by army officials.

Present plans, not yet perfected, call for the presence of the First Pursuit Group of Selfridge Field, Michigan; the Second Bombardment Group, from Langley Field, Virginia; and the third Attack Group, from Fort Crockett, Texas. The aerial forces also will include the fighting units stationed at Brooks and Kelly Fields, here.

Such a concentration of aerial forces would bring practically the entire army air corps here for the maneuvers, including the latest speedy scouting planes, the heavy Martin bombers and new models of fighting aircraft.

It was learned that Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air forces, discussed the proposed maneuvers with high army officers during his visit here last month, when he attended the "take-off" of the army's "around South America" contingent.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

"Purges" and "Physics" Bad for Old Folks

While Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, knew that constipation was the curse of advancing age, he did not believe that a "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

To him, it seemed cruel that so many constipated old people had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to "regulate" the bowels of old folks. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but each dose helps to strengthen the bowel muscles, shortly establishing natural "regularity." It never gripes, sickens, or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

If past fifty, buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

FARM BUREAU PLANS DRIVE

Membership Campaign Will be Launched on Feb. 14.

A membership campaign will be launched in this county by the Columbiana county farm bureau on Feb. 14, following a series of rallies that have been in progress in townships during the last few weeks.

Plans for canvass will be discussed during the sectional meetings of the Farmers' week observance at Columbus this week.

This meeting will be attended by County Agent Floyd Lower and Service Manager Phil E. Heim, both of Lisbon; Clark J. Halverstadt, of Leetonia, a member of the board of directors of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation; LeRoy Whinnery, of Salem, membership campaign manager; Dallas F. Hahn, of Knox township, and S. M. VanBlaricom, of Perry township.

Much interest has been created in the activity of the bureau during the township rallies. Representatives of the Ohio federation and extension service department of Ohio State university have addressed many of these meetings, and each speaker has pointed out the service the rural resident can obtain by being associated with the county bureau.

Several years ago a membership campaign was conducted by the county bureau and as a result several hundred new names were enrolled. The new campaign will be in charge of county bureau members, headed by Whinnery.

CHURCH HOLDS SPECIAL SERVICE

Special services were held at the Lisbon Methodist Episcopal church Sunday, marking the first anniversary of its re-dedication. In the evening an organ recital was given by Mrs. Harry R. Marsden, and this was followed by an hour's hymn service. During the interpretation of these hymns, Rev. Charles N. Church was assisted by G. A. Hempstead, chorister, and the vested choir.

$1,200 IS ASKED FOR NURSE WORK

THE MAGNIFICENT NEW Royal Eight BY CHANDLER

EVERY visitor to the Automobile Show last week was an eye-witness to the most whole-hearted reception an automobile ever received in Cleveland.

The new Royal Eight by Chandler was the heart and soul of the whole Show. Thousands and thousands of people pressed around the car—frankly admired it—sat in it—discussed it with an interest, an eagerness, a favorableness one hundred per cent spontaneous and sincere.

It was a case of beauty seizing attention—and luxury holding attention. People found within this magnificent car every elegance, every convenience, every nicety known to automobile craftsmanship. Bookings of orders far exceeded all previous show records!

Sharing honors with the new Royal Eight were the distinguished new 1927 Chandler Sixes. If you failed to attend the Automobile Show, you can see these cars now at the nearest Chandler showroom. Pick your model and take a drive!

FARM BUREAU PLANS DRIVE

Membership Campaign Will be Launched on Feb. 14.

A membership campaign will be launched in this county by the Columbiana county farm bureau on Feb. 14, following a series of rallies that have been in progress in townships during the last few weeks.

Plans for canvass will be discussed during the sectional meetings of the Farmers' week observance at Columbus this week.

This meeting will be attended by County Agent Floyd Lower and Service Manager Phil E. Heim, both of Lisbon; Clark J. Halverstadt, of Leetonia, a member of the board of directors of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation; LeRoy Whinnery, of Salem, membership campaign manager; Dallas F. Hahn, of Knox township, and S. M. VanBlaricom, of Perry township.

Much interest has been created in the activity of the bureau during the township rallies. Representatives of the Ohio federation and extension service department of Ohio State university have addressed many of these meetings, and each speaker has pointed out the service the rural resident can obtain by being associated with the county bureau.

Several years ago a membership campaign was conducted by the county bureau and as a result several hundred new names were enrolled. The new campaign will be in charge of county bureau members, headed by Whinnery.

CHURCH HOLDS SPECIAL SERVICE

Special services were held at the Lisbon Methodist Episcopal church Sunday, marking the first anniversary of its re-dedication. In the evening an organ recital was given by Mrs. Harry R. Marsden, and this was followed by an hour's hymn service. During the interpretation of these hymns, Rev. Charles N. Church was assisted by G. A. Hempstead, chorister, and the vested choir.

$1,200 IS ASKED FOR NURSE WORK

THE MAGNIFICENT NEW Royal Eight BY CHANDLER

EVERY visitor to the Automobile Show last week was an eye-witness to the most whole-hearted reception an automobile ever received in Cleveland.

The new Royal Eight by Chandler was the heart and soul of the whole Show. Thousands and thousands of people pressed around the car—frankly admired it—sat in it—discussed it with an interest, an eagerness, a favorableness one hundred per cent spontaneous and sincere.

It was a case of beauty seizing attention—and luxury holding attention. People found within this magnificent car every elegance, every convenience, every nicety known to automobile craftsmanship. Bookings of orders far exceeded all previous show records!

Sharing honors with the new Royal Eight were the distinguished new 1927 Chandler Sixes. If you failed to attend the Automobile Show, you can see these cars now at the nearest Chandler showroom. Pick your model and take a drive!

Cartledge Passers Fall Before Local Scholastic Outfit

Coach Charles Q. "Punk" Cartledge, the diminutive director of Steubenville's state-wide famous football combination of recent years, who is as accustomed to gridiron victories as a leopard is to spots, peered out through his gold-rimmed glasses Saturday night on the tragedy being enacted before his eyes in the high school gym here as Lorah's youngsters mistreated his basketball hopefuls to the tune of 42 to 26 and probably wished it was September instead of January.

Cartledge had four members of his great 1926 football team that knocked off Cathedral Latin, Youngstown South and numerous others, out on the floor Saturday night but line plunges, end runs and sundry appurtenances of the wide open spaces were barred, and the majority of the visitors' "forward" passers were backward as far as intimacy with the hoops was concerned. "Buddy" Coles, great colored star with the Steubenville football team, who insisted upon breaking into the scoring column, harassed the banking boards for three full quarters and the greater part of the fouth before the meshes reached out mercifully and snagged the leather for a field goal.

The Blue and White victory was the second in consecutive nights and gave the locals a total of 114 points for the two days' work, Lisbon succumbing to the basketball wiles of Captain Jimmy Hamilton and his mates by a 72-8 count Friday.

The issue in Saturday night's engagement really was settled in the first half when the local passers ran up a count of 25 to 10, 11 points in the first period and 14 in the second. The visitors found the going rough after the first toot of the whistle, Forward Shelton finding the bucket for a field goal and a foul, representative of three points and the Steubenville score in the initial period.

But, despite the odds, the Stubbers stuck to their guns and were coming along in great style in the final period when they scored 10 points, although Larkins, McKeever and McConville were absent from the activities for part of the quarter.

Hamilton, McKeever and Larkins vied for scoring honors in the first half, with Hamilton taking the edge as a result of his accuracy from the foul line. Each of the three dropped in three field goals, Hamilton counting also on two foul line attempts.

Hamilton, after scoring a field goal in the third period, was taken out with the contest fairly well sewed up, being replaced by Bloor, who subsequently gave way to Ankrim.

The scoring burden was dropped on McKeever's shoulders and the chunky forward went on to set the pace. Dropping in three in the final half, he accumulated a grand total of six field goals and a foul for 13 points.

Larkins and McConville got in the way of too many Steubenville passes to permit the visitors' offensive movements any marked degree of success. And another important factor in the Blue victory was the competence of Center English in getting the tip-off. He outjumped Feist in nine out of 10 chances and naturally the advantage gave Lorah's five a big edge on the get-away.

Hamilton got back into the game in the last period with the score standing something like 30 to 20 in favor of the locals and dropped in a nice basket from long range by way of emphasizing his performance for the evening.

COLUMBIANA FIVE BEATEN AT WELLSVILLE

Boys Drop 30-16 Game But Visiting Girls Win, 23-9.

COACH EARL KLINCK'S Wellsville five almost doubled the score on Columbiana Saturday night on the Wellsville court, finishing ahead of the north countians by a count of 30 to 16 in a fast encounter.

The Orange and Black passers got off to the lead and held to the pole track all the way round with Calhoun, Provost and Dickey leading the attack.

Calhoun chalked up three and contributed a quartet of additional points on foul line tosses.

The Wellsville girls were defeated by the visiting sextet in the preliminary by a score of 23 to 9.

Faculty Manager Trumbull, of Wellsville, today announced plans were under way for the distribution of ducats for the East Liverpool-Wellsville game February 15, at Wellsville. Practically all the tickets will be sold before the game, with Trumball in charge of the distribution in Wellsville and Faculty Manager Decker here.

THREE CUSHION RIVALS BATTLE

CHICAGO, Jan. 31. — Ten of the best three-cushion billiard players in the country will line the barrier at the auditorium late today for the start of the three-weeks' tournament for the national three-cushion championship.

Tiff Denton, of Kansas City, and Arthur Thurnblad, of Chicago, will open the tourney with the first afternoon match. Following them come Allen Hall, of St. Louis, and Riamundo Campanioni, Havana, Cuba. Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia, and Charles McCourt, Cleveland, will clash in the first night session, after whom August Kieckhefer and Leonard Kenney, both of Chicago, will conclude the first day's play.

The other two contestants, Gus Copulos, of Detroit and Earl Lookabaugh, Lindenwood, Ill., will not get into action until tomorrow.

Otto Reiselt is the defending champion. Allen Hall is said to be the most threatening of the younger generation. He and the always colorful Campanioni are expected to furnish some sensational billiards.

In addition to the championship emblem, the winner receives $1,260 in cash, 24 per cent of the gate receipts and a salary of $250 a month from a billiard supply company as long as he keeps the title.

WILDE'S SQUAD DOWNS LIBERTY FRESHIES, 26-19

Outclass Normal Five in Clash at Rock Springs.

SATURDAY night was a big night for Chester high school basketballers, the Hancock countians winning both ends of a double header, Ray Wilde's boys trimming the West Liberty Normal Freshmen by a count of 26 to 19, and the girls copping a 35 to 17 decision over the sextet representing the Methodist Episcopal church of East Liverpool.

The main attraction was fast, and rough in spots, although the team of young giants that the Normal school sent against the Chester squad were no match in skill for the Chesterites.

Wilde's kids showed the best form of the season, cutting for the baskets in almost faultless style. They employed short passes to great advantage, making most of their points from close range.

The Frosh were unable to fathom Chester's five man defense and, consequently, did most of their shooting from mid-court.

Liberty took the lead in the first period, Stryker and Campbell sinking baskets on long shots. Hoskinson scored Chester's first point from foul line. Hinds and Simcox counted for Chester in the same manner and Simcox put the Chester five in the lead with a field goal on a pretty side shot. Hoskinson dropped in another double decker and the home squad began to play rings around the visitors. Simcox's field goal gave Wilde's team a 9 to 4 lead at the end of the first period.

McBride started the scoring in the second quarter with a pretty shot from center. Frew put in another Frosh basket with the same kind of a shot. McBride put the West Liberty lads on even terms with a foul line toss. Simcox broke the deadlock with a single pointer. Miller scored another Chester tally on a free throw. Campbell made a foul line chance good for the Frosh. Bartley got a double marker for Chester under the basket. Simcox sank a foul line point, and his next try was good for two points making the score 16 to 10, Chester, at half time.

McBride was the first to score in the second half, counting twice on foul line chances. Bartley came to the front for Chester, sinking in two field goals, making the game about safe for the Chesterites. Hoskinson and Simcox tossed in two more double deckers giving Chester a lead that was too big to overcome. Hertic tossed in a two-pointer for the Frosh. Bartley came through with another field basket. McBride counted for West Liberty with a pretty side shot. McBride made another Frosh point from the foul line. Simcox heaved in Chester's last field goal and Campbell sank in the last points of the game on a pretty shot from center.

All the winners played A-1 basketball, Simcox and Bartley doing the best all around playing.

For West Liberty, Campbell, Stryker, and McBride were the best performers.

Skinner, Spangler and Neal were the stars for the Chester sextet, Miss Skinner finding the baskets for fourteen double pointers. Cochran, Goodballet and Gibbons played well for the East Liverpool girls.

"Pro" Basketball Is Enjoying Biggest Season

Basketball seems to be the one new professional sport, as organized on a national basis, that has a chance to live. The cage game not only will continue but already is on a paying basis. The pro game thrived for years in the east but is a new venture in the middle west and this is but the second season of the first well organized league of anything approaching national scope. Above are some of the stars of the American Professional basketball league, who are making it popular. Saunders and Kennedy are with the Washington club, Russell and Hickey with Cleveland, Holman (called the greatest) with the Celtics and Passon with Philadelphia.

Michigan Quint Heading Toward Big Ten Honors

Five Victories, no Defeats Give Them Undisputed Lead.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Still unbeaten, and with the hardest part of their schedule behind them, the University of Michigan basketball five this week enters the last half of the season, apparently coasting clear to another Big Ten championship.

With five games won and none lost the Wolverines today have an undisputed hold on first place. Indiana, beaten only by Michigan, shares second place with Wisconsin. Each team has won four games and lost one. The Hoosiers kept hot on the championship trail by beating Chicago Saturday night, 28 to 23.

Purdue is in third place with three victories and one defeat. Ohio State, by virtue of a 33 to 31 victory over Minnesota Saturday night, managed to hold its own with Illinois. Ohio and Illinois are tied, each having won three games and lost two.

Iowa, Chicago, Northwestern and Minnesota bring up the rear in the order named. The latter two have not won a single conference game this season.

Michigan still faces a two-game series with Chicago and Purdue, and a return engagement with Illinois. Chicago is not calculated to furnish much opposition, but Purdue and Illinois are always tough teams to beat. Both have improved with the advance of the season.

The past week say a lull in hostilities owing to mid-term examinations, but from now on a bitter fight to the finish is expected. The games scheduled for this Saturday are: Indiana at Chicago, Minnesota at Illinois and Ohio State at Iowa.

HIGH SCORERS IN BIG TEN RACE

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Bill Hunt, Ohio State guard, was setting the pace today in the Big Ten race for individual scoring honors. Otterness of Minnesota was second, and Daugherty, Illinois, and Cummins, Purdue, were tied for third.

High scores ranking, by total points, follow:

Hunt, Ohio	53
Otterness, Minnesota	51
Daugherty, Illinois	47
Cummins, Purdue	47
Bahr, Wisconsin	40
Kruger, Indiana	38
Ooosterbaan, Michigan	37
Wheeler, Purdue	35

PLAY-OFF PLAN DECIDED UPON AT LOOP MEET

First Game at Damascus Tuesday; Battle Here Thursday.

EAST LIVERPOOL ELKS and Damascus Quakers, who wound up the first half season of the Columbiana County Amateur Basketball league in a dead heat for top honors will battle in a three-game series for the title, with the inaugural clash carded tomorrow night at Damascus.

This was the decision reached yesterday afternoon at a meeting of league officers and representatives of the six circuit clubs in the Hostetter hostel, Lisbon.

Although the forfeit game phase connected with the wind-up in which the Elks claimed the right to take their first game of the season with East Palestine, was submitted by Manager Adam and Coach Powell, the league after a lengthy consideration, decided that for the best interests of every one concerned, the title series would be advisable.

Realizing that although they could have pressed their claims for the game, on the ground that Damascus received two forfeit games from Wellsville, but conceding that too stiff an argument might lead to a break, the Elks, in the interests of good sportsmanship, left the matter up to the other league managers entirely and the latter, after all phases were discussed, decided the best way out of the situation would be a series of games.

The opener, consequently, is billed on the Damascus floor. The second game will be played Thursday night at the high school court here and the third, if necessary, will be staged on the Salem floor on the following Monday night.

Salem and Salineville will contribute the referees, with Scullion and Young engaged for the jobs. Scullion will work at Damascus and Young at East Liverpool and both at Salem, if a third contest is needed.

Harmony prevailed during the session.

As a result of the first half title series, the league was forced to set the second half schedule back a week, and revised the schedule throughout in order to meet the new contingency.

Three clubs sought membership in the circuit, representatives of Sebring, Canton and Midland being present.

GREENE BOOSTS PIN AVERAGE

As a result of his efforts in the first three games of the second half, Johnny Greene of the Bankers has boosted his average to 156 pins, which is not bad bowling for 33 games.

The Bankers will go into action tomorrow night against Turk Nash. Smith News and Roselawns are billed for tonight, with the Chryslers and Altmans winding up the week's play on Friday.

YOUNGSTOWN GO IS POSTPONED

YOUNGSTOWN, Jan. 31.—The Billy Wallace-Ray Mitchell bout, scheduled for tonight at Youngstown, has been postponed, Matchmaker Al Zill announced today. Wallace is sick and will be unable to appear. No date has been set for the bout.

BEING 'RUINED MEANS $50,000

That's What Next Season Will Probably Bring Speaker.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—In talking trifles today with Miller Huggins, the though may occur to Tris Speaker that the average wrestler in Japan weight 400 pounds and has the paunch of an ex-brewer in order to prevent anyone getting a firm hold on him and to avoid injury when he falls. This will remind Speaker of himself. He is so different.

He fully expects the Yanks, Athletics or Senators to get a firm and semi-permanent hold on him and should he fall for Mr. Huggins' suave, oily ways, the chances are he won't be injured in the slightest. In fact, the yong man figures to do himself plenty of good. He and Ty Cobb are two of three men on record who have profited by a punch on the nose. The other is Jack Dempsey.

The only thing Dutch Leonard accomplished by his scandal charges against the pair of stars was to talk each into at least $50,000 for the following season. An odds on bet is that the New York Yankees, being extremely nervous with a fountain pen, will have either Speaker or Cobb in their outfield for the 1927 campaign.

Having hastened on from Florida, it may be suspected that Mr. Huggins came not here to praise Speaker but to purchase him. They may not come to a definite understanding at once but the careless manner in which Mr. Huggins handles the decimal system is bound to make a lasting impression, like a signet ring on a Harvard nose.

Some of the boys in the back room are saying today that our man Huggins will close the deal before nightfall. They simply have to build Rome on an eight-hour shift or they feel the thing won't look good. The chances are that Speaker, being notoriously smarter than a dumbwaiter, will make haste with great tardiness. Only a sap would fail to capitalize the present situation.

It is generally understood that he has one offer from Connie Mack under consideration. Another from Griffith is supposed to be waiting him in Washington. If either the Yanks or Athletics make the purchase, they will be buying more than Tris Speaker, one of the great hitters of all baseball. They will be buying the 1927 American league pennant, barring the unforseen. To the Senators, it might mean the difference between a contender and an also ran.

Speaker therefore can't go wrong and neither can the bidder who finally makes the buy. If money proves to be the only influence in Speaker's choice, the Yanks should get him.

But if they miss, they are prepared to bid as high for Cobb. In fact, the loss of Speaker to Philadelphia would mean that the Yanks would have to get Cobb in self-defense, even if the deal meant a cash outlay greater than that required to sign Ruth. The local club has been shouting for another left hand hitter; it now has two of them to shoot at.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

The shot that the golfer needs the most, and the most often, is the approach to the green that will cause the ball to stay on the green after it hits. This shot is particularly valuable when the greens are a bit dry, but whether springy or dry, I dare say that the approach through the air that strikes the green and either rolls over or rolls far from the pin is the shot in golf that most often causes extra strokes. The player cannot avoid these strokes added by depending on run-ups all the time, because the long run-up approach is difficult to control, since it never can be foreseen what the ball will strike against when it strikes in the long grass ahead of the green. The pitch that stops obviously is a much needed shot, and I will discuss its essentials in the articles to follow.

band and at 12 o'clock noon the national salute of 21 guns is fired. The flag is then hoisted to the top of the staff.

The president or an ex-president is given the national salute of 21 guns upon his arrival at and departure from a military camp. The question of just why 21 guns was selected as the national salute has long been one upon which the general public has pondered and it is a favorite one with those newspaper readers availing themselves of the various information services. The tracing of the origin of this number is not so simple as it might sound, but the following explanation has been given:

Seven Times Three.

Originally warships fired a salute of seven guns, the number seven being selected because of its mystical significance from antiquity. Although the salute at sea was seven guns, shore batteries were allowed to fire three guns to the ship's one. The reason for this was that sodium nitrate was largely used in the manufacture of powder. This was easily spoiled at sea, but could be very readily kept on land. The multiplier three was selected probably because of its symbolism.

With the development of the manufacture of powder, the number of guns for the international naval salute was made to correspond with that of the land forces. On August 18, 1875, a resolution adopted by the United States provided that salutes be returned gun for gun. At this time the British salute was already 21 guns, therefore, this number was accepted by the United States.

The origin of the military salute has also been something of a mystery to the average person, and several ideas have been advanced. It was supposed to have been the practice in Rome at the time of Julius Caesar for inferiors to raise the palm of the hand to the front of their caps in order to show that it contained no dagger. This was because of the fact that assassinations were common in those days. It has been suggested that time and custom have modified this to the military salute.

Another idea suggested is that in the British army during the American Revolution it was customary for inferiors to uncover before superiors and equals in acknowledgement of their presence. On account of the clumsy headgear this custom degenerated into saluting without removing the cap.

The firing of salutes is a very important part of military ceremonies and much space is given in the regulations to all the details for each occasion. The exact number of guns to be fired in honor of each important visitor is set forth and the correct time for firing is given. It is also decreed that "personal salutes at the same place and in compliment to the same person, whether civil, diplomatic, military, or naval, are never to be fired oftener than once a year, unless such person will have been in the meantime advanced in rank."

The new regulations also include the flat statement that since the army is the senior service, precedence should be accorded it over the navy in all ceremonials on shore in which the forces of both of these branches of the service are participating. And this without regard to the military rank of the commanding officers of the detachment. There can, therefore, be no possible question as to an admiral's position in a parade when the army detachment is led by a mere captain or major. Even with all his rank he does not rate leading the procession!

CHURCH MEET IS SCHEDULED

Annual General Council Conference Listed for Fairmont.

The annual general council conference of the Presbyterian church of West Virginia, will be held in Fairmont on February 3. The meeting will be held in conjunction with the semi-annual meeting of the Synod's council of the Presbyterian church of West Virginia.

At the meeting the budget for the entire Presbyterian council of West Virginia will be apportioned. At the National Presbyterian councils meeting during the first week of December a budget of $88,118 was alloted to the Presbyterian church in West Virginia. This amount will be proportioned to the three presbyteries of West Virginia at the meeting. The national budget was cut from $13,000,000 in 1926 to $12,000,000 for 1927.

Those leaving this city will leave at 7:15 a. m. on the morning of February 3. The meeting will close on that evening.

One of the big features will be the banquet to be served at noon at the Hotel Fairmont. All those present at the banquet will be the guests of Rev. A. B. McCormick, D. D., secretary of the eastern district of the general council of the Presbyterian church of the United States.

Among the prominent speakers at the banquet will be Dr. McCormick, Rev. Ernest F. Hall, D. D., secretary of the board of National Missions; Rev. H. McAfee Robinson, D. D., secretary of the board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian church, of the United States.

Other members of the program and field committee of which Dr. Keesor is chairman are: Rev. G. E. Beevans, of Fairmont, and John H. Thornton, of Sistersville, W. Va.

Dr. Keesor has announced that the only cost entailed to the attending of the sessions will be train fare to and from Fairmont.

Noted Star Succumbs After Operation in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31. — Miss Sybil Bauer, famous woman swimmer, died early today at Michael Reese hospital following a long illness. Miss Bauer had been confined to the hospital for several months from complications that developed after an operation for intestinal disorder.

At the bedside when death came were Miss Bauer's parents, a brother and her fiance, Edward Sullivan, New York newspaper man.

The death of the noted star came as a distinct surprise as it was announced only a few days ago that she was recovering rapidly.

Miss Bauer was holder of many national and international swimming records. She was noted especially for her back stroke records. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bauer of Chicago. Until the break in her health Miss Bauer was a student at Northwestern university.

"Too Tired" to Enjoy Yourself?

Help you digestive apparatus do its full duty. Give your blood the enrichment that brings vigor. Smooth out the "kinks" in your nerves. Get yourself normal, and you won't always be complaining of a "tired feeling."

Your body needs the right kind of digestive stimulation to keep it functioning with 100 per cent efficiency. That "all-in" feeling is unnecessary.

A remarkable stimulant-tonic has been devised for just such conditions as these. It is delightful palatable and is prepared by an old Virginia concern in business for nearly a century. Druggists and physicians have come to know this stimulant as "Old Monticello Tonic." Get a bottle today from your druggist, take a small wineglass full before the next meal—see how much better you eat—feel the glow of stimulated functions throughout the body. A few days' treatment will bring a quick change in run-down conditions and overcome lack of energy.
